COMMONER GOES TO HIS FINAL REST

GREAT COMMONER IN FINAL SLEEP

Here is the first picture of the body of William Jennings Bryan lying in state in the New York-ave Presbyterian church of Washington, D. C. The honor guard was composed of A. M. Barthraume, T. Zuleth and E. J. Nolen. This photograph was transmitted over special leased wires.

BRYAN JOINS COMRADES OF FORMER DAYS

Family, Called from Distant Parts of Land, Is Re-united at Bier

WIDOW BEARS UP BRAVELY

Drooping Colors on Government Buildings Speak of Service to Country

Washington, D. C. — With simple rites, W. J. Bryan was given back in death Friday to the God he worshipped in life. There was little in the brief funeral ceremony that any plain, God-fearing man might not have known. Only the presence of a little cluster of high officials of the government and a few diplomats, struck a note of remembrance for his years of distinguished public service at Arlington cemetery across the Potomac, was emphasized another aspect of the long career that has closed.

There waited the ranks of a military escort to pay last honors at the grave to one who in vigor of his earlier days had served the flag as a soldier.

The funeral service was pronounced in the sanctuary where he had worshipped during the months he was secretary of state. His body resting in a bronze casket under folds of an American flag lay in the midst of a great hush of sorrow as a flow of an ever-present relatives were craned about him.

Old familiar hymns and the psalms to whose words of hope he pinned his unflinching faith made up his requiem. There were softly spoken words of prayer and a brief funeral tribute by his pastor, Dr. Joseph E. Sizoo who had been chosen to recount his mortal journey. Gattered around his bier at last was a reunited family called from distant parts of the land. The widow, who has borne so bravely this sorrow heaped upon her own afflictions was joined early in the day by her only son, W. J. Bryan, Jr., from Los Angeles, and another daughter, Mrs. Grace B. Hargreaves of Beverly Hills, Calif.

FAMILY SAYS GOOD BYE
After the last of the thousands who moved with solemn tread through the New York-ave Presbyterian church for a last look on the face of the crusader had gone their way, a little span of time was set aside so that the last of the members of the family to arrive here could visit the church.

High above the little brick church where mourning relatives and friends gathered Friday to say their last farewells, flags fluttered at half-staff from the great government buildings to mark the nation's formal tribute to the Commoner.

The drooping colors spoke of the service he had given to the flag as a soldier statesman and legislator, the solemn religious ceremonies in the church and at the grave were keyed to recount his valorous championship in public and private life of the gospel of peace on earth and good will toward men.

Still bearing up bravely under the double burden of her great grief and the heavy affliction she has known so many years, Mrs. Bryan found the strength to arrange the last details of the services, by the Rev. Dr. Joseph E. Sizoo, which were expanded to include Bible passages that the dead man prized above all others. It was she who told of the hymns that had brought him comfort.

ASSASSIN'S WIFE GETS MONEY PAID HUSBAND FOR JOB

Chicago—A strange tale of murder, in which a wife paid $400 to have her husband slain, the hired assassin in turn employing another to do shooting for $200 and the subsequent slitting of the money from the slayer, was unfolded at the detective bureau Thursday night.

The widow of Louis Mobile, slain last December, said she paid $400 to have her husband slain, claiming that he had abused her daughter by a former marriage. The daughter corroborated her story.

James Salino said he collected the money, but claimed he was only the middleman, keeping $300 for his share and having "the job done for the $200 that was left."

Andrew Capa, who admitted the shooting, said his wife had taken the money and gone to Milwaukee, where she was arrested. Mrs. Capa's comment was "what's $200?"

Saving Is Greatest Of Coolidge Achievements

(This is the first of four dispatches on the theme "Two Years of Coolidge" written by David Lawrence a propos of the fact that Monday next will mark the end of the second year since Calvin Coolidge took the oath of office as President of the United States.)

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by the Post Pub. Co. Swampscott, Mass. — Two years in White House usually means mid-channel. It marks the high tide of popularity, or the beginning of the ebbflow of unpopularity.

Midchannel in President Taft's terms told the story of Schedule "K" and a fatal insurgency that spelled political disaster. Midchannel with President Wilson revealed the great fervor of his administration, the great achievement in foreign affairs, but a rising dissent on domestic policies, particularly in the railroad and coal strike controversies.

POSITION IS UNIQUE
President Coolidge stands in a position wholly unlike any of these predecessors. All but five months of his first two years as president have been spent in filling out the unexpired term of the man he succeeded. And most of the first year was inevitably consumed in maneuvering for the presidential nomination so that not until the November election of 1924 did the country feel that Mr. Coolidge was "president in his own right," as the phrase goes. He has, been, however, in office almost a year now under the latter classification.

Is Mr. Coolidge more popular than he was when elected last autumn, or has his political strength declined? Is he fortunate in having no serious reverses or is his own political sagacity responsible for the relative harmony that prevails inside his party? These two questions are natural to ask at the mid-channel period in any presidential career. Calvin Coolidge has had the opportunity to reveal himself to the American people in two years, but even his friends concede that he had not disclosed much more of his personality than was apparent when he took the oath of office. He is first of all not of a self-revealing disposition. He does not place the processes of his mind in the public prints where they can be minutely examined. He perceives as much virtue in

LEWIS STAYS AWAY FROM ANTHRACITE CONCLAVE

By Associated Press
Atlantic City, N. J.—John L. Lewis, miners' international president who arrived Thursday night after a ten days' absence, remained away from the anthracite scale conference Friday and signified that it was not his intention as yet to attend.

Mr. Lewis remained silent as to major problems in both the hard and soft coal fields other than to attack anthracite mine owners for what he called their obvious determination not to reach a settlement in the wage negotiation here.

LAMAS IN TIBET WAR ON MODERNS

Central Asian Priests Seek to Quell Uprising of Militarists

By Associated Press
London.—Civil war is reported to have broken out in the land of the Lamas, Tibet, in special dispatches from Calcutta, which are described as unofficial but very circumstantial. The date of the happenings is not disclosed, and perhaps the report has been a long time coming from that exclusive plateau country of Central Asia.

The situation is said to have developed through a plot by military officers who had been trained abroad and imbued with western ideas, as against the ancient rules of priesthood under the heads of the Lamaist church of Tibetan Buddhism. The officers, the dispatches show, plotted to overthrow Lamaism. The plot was discovered and the Tibetan commander-in-chief was degraded.

The Lamaist hierarchy is declared to be as fanatical as ever against the introduction of modernism in any form, and as it controls some 17,000 monks it apparently will be able to maintain the old order of things.

SARGASSO SEA IS MYTH, RETURNING SAVANT SAYS

By Associated Press
New York.—The Sargasso Sea, that "vast floating prairie," between America and Africa, where miles of huge floating meadows once were fabled to have held imprisoned ships in the clutches of the Sargasso weed, was declared a "myth" Friday by Dr. William Beebe. Dr. Beebe and a party of fourteen scientists returned Thursday from an expedition aboard the Albatross, an ocean-going scientific laboratory.

"We made two visits to the region," Mr. Beebe said, "but we did not once encounter the fabled sea."

Instead, he said, they found only isolated patches of weed.

Another important discovery reported by the expedition was that the Humboldt current, presumed to sweep along the west coast of South America, also did not exist. Instead of this current they found, off the Galapagos Islands, a current rip, alive with strange marine life. It was here that the expedition captured its choicest specimens.

Tampa, Fla.—Norman Klein, known as Norman Kelley and George Kelly, was under arrest here charged with violation of a special act of congress protecting the life of the President of the United States.

Klein, taken by agents of the department of justice, is being held incommunicado on specific charges of writing letters to President Coolidge threatening his life. Klein was traced here after a chase that led all over the country.

PACT AVERTS MINE STRIKE CALLED TODAY

British Owners Withdraw Notices for Two Weeks, Baldwin Announces

By Associated Press
London.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin informed the house of commons Friday that a provisional agreement has been reached in the coal industry, and that the mine owners have withdrawn their notices for two weeks thus averting a countrywide strike which was called for midnight Friday night.

The notices that have been withdrawn were those posted at the pit-heads informing the miners that new conditions would be effective at midnight Friday night, in view of the inability to arrive at a new working agreement supplanting the one that expires Friday. These notices hurried the decision of the Miners' federation for the nationwide strike called the moment the old working agreement ended. It is assumed that the miners will continue at their tasks under the present hours and wages, with the government given financial aid to the owners until a full inquiry of the mining industry has been completed.

CALLS CABINET

Premier Baldwin called a meeting of the cabinet Thursday night, then summoned the mine owners' and miners' delegates. After separate talks with each, he announced that the miners were willing to cooperate in an inquiry with a view to improving productive efficiency and increasing competitive power in the world markets.

The miners, he said, felt it was unfair to ask them to accept a reduction in wages, in view of the high cost of living.

Mr. Baldwin requested that the owners agree to suspend for a fortnight their notices of reduced wages and longer hours of work which brought on the strike threat, so that there could be discussion as to the means of affording them assistance. There is nothing to show what form the financial help of the government will take. It probably is not yet determined.

MELLON DENIES PLAN TO LEAVE TREASURY

By Associated Press
New York.—Secretary Mellon who is spending the summer here, denies that he is to resign from the cabinet. A statement issued by his secretary said: "Mr. Mellon authorized me to say that he cannot understand these reported stories about his leaving the cabinet. He would have preferred to ignore this latest one, but takes occasion to deny its truth so that the public will have no doubt about his intention to remain as head of the treasury department."

ROOSEVELTS REACH YARKAND, TURKESTAN

By Associated Press
Simla, India.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his brother Kermit, and the members of the Central Asia hunting expedition they are leading, have reached Yarkand in eastern Turkestan, with all baggage and personnel. The expedition is traveling to Tianshan by way of the Yarkand river. Twenty ponies have been lost during the trip.

Bradford, Pa.—Two unidentified men were shot to death shortly before noon Friday by unknown assailants. The bodies were found in an automobile bearing a New York state license issued to Vincent Tallini, of Ocean. Loaded revolvers were found on both bodies.

TWO UNKNOWN MEN ARE FOUND DEAD IN AUTO

Appleton police have joined the search that is being made all over the state for 8-year-old Arthur Schumacher, who disappeared mysteriously from his home at Wauwatosa a week ago.

Search was concentrated in the Fox River valley following the receipt of information that a boy answering to the description was seen at Wrightstown last Sunday in company with two men.

Chief of Police Baltes of Wauwatosa, has made plans to bulletin the entire middlewest giving pictures and detailed description of the missing boy. A thorough search was undertaken Friday in the "hunger" along the Menominee river by boy scouts, but their efforts failed to reveal any trace of the boy. The river also was dragged. Authorities at Wauwatosa felt that if the Wrightstown report collapses, they will be without any clue to work on.

The information about the boy seen at Wrightstown came from Postmaster U. B. Rammel of that city who said that two vagrants and a boy of about 8 called at a little house near the railroad after the milk train had pulled out from Appleton and asked how far it was to Appleton.

The young woman that answered them is reported to have said, "Aren't you big fellows ashamed of yourselves, bumbling rides with a young chap like that?" The boy then said, "I ain't cold." They also asked where Highway 15 was and later started out to walk in the direction of Appleton.

Chief George T. Prim went to Wrightstown Thursday to investigate the matter but found the young woman, Mrs. Sherman LeRoy, away from home. Later he saw her in Appleton and questioned her. The chief is of the opinion that the boy was not the Schumacher boy, and that the group that came to Wrightstown might have been on its way to see the circus at Appleton, for it was advertised as far as Marquette, Mich.

SEEKS TOGA

James H. McGilligan, prominent Green Bay attorney, is seeking nomination as candidate for the United States Senate's successor to the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette.

M'GOVERN HITS OSHKOSH G. O. P.

Candidate for Senate Says "Snuffing Out Candidates" Violates Rule

Milwaukee.—The ethics of the Oshkosh convention of Republican regulars is questioned in a letter sent to Lyman G. Wheeler, president of the Republican Minute Men, by Francis E. McGovern, candidate for the United States Senate, and made public here.

Mr. McGovern, in deciding to place himself outside of the convention stronghold dominated by W. J. Campbell of Oshkosh, asks Mr. Wheeler a long series of questions in which he desires to find out who gave Wheeler the authority to ask him (McGovern) to submit to the will of the convention and abide by any decision that convention would make in endorsing a candidate for the United States Senate.

The candidate asserts he has learned through its leaders, already has decided not to endorse any candidate now before the people but is planning to settle on a "dark horse."

This "snuffing out of candidates" by a convention, Mr. McGovern states in his letter, is repugnant to the principle of the primary election law.

Search Centered Here For Missing Youngster

Appleton police have joined the search that is being made all over the state for 8-year-old Arthur Schumacher, who disappeared mysteriously from his home at Wauwatosa a week ago.

BELOIT PARTY WILL ATTEMPT DARING FEATS

African Expedition, Led by Alonzo W. Pond Will Sail on August 12

WILL SCALE MOUNTAIN

All Known Prehistoric Sites Will Be Visited Enroute Savants Plan

Beloit.—An ascent of Mount Ilman in Africa, 12,000 feet in height and a climb never before accomplished by man, will be an objective of the Logan Sahara expedition of Beloit college under the leadership of Alonzo W. Pond, research worker for the college, it was announced here Friday.

The first aim of the expedition is exploration, the announcement states. Nothing is known of what the members of the expedition will find in its trip to the regions of interior Africa, seldom if ever visited by white men. In its probable contributions to geography, the expedition will be in the class with polar expeditions, according to the forecasts of the director.

SEEK OLD RELICS

All known pre-historic sites enroute will be investigated and search made for new ones. It is planned to live in part of the country, hence the need of rifles, although it is indicated that they are not unessential as protection from the natives.

Much of the country to be traversed is considered very rich in prehistoric deposits. In the western part of the desert the expedition will enter a region of caves and rock shelters which Mr. Pond says possess "carvings and paintings far richer than any so far known in any part of the world, in all probability."

The expedition will sail from New York for Africa August 12. The starting point on the continent will be Tebessa, and on Oct. 1, the party will leave for Tamansrasset, the place where a famous French aviator crashed a short time ago. A mechanic who was with the ill-fated aviator will be with the expedition, in charge of the automobiles. Three of the men, De Prorok, members of the party and a cooperator of the enterprise. These machines will be equipped with four rear wheels and balloon tires. Seats are so arranged that they can be used for beds.

EXPLORE NEW TERRITORY

At Tamansrasset they will spend about two weeks exploring valleys which have never before been covered so far as known. The party will be in contact with Twareg or descendants of the Berbers. These persons, Mr. Pond states, are wandering tribes in that part of the Sahara desert.

Maurice Regasse, former French colonial governor, another member of the party, has arranged for the services of the best-known interpreter of these people.

It was announced by Mr. Pond that the University of Michigan is cooperating with the expedition in addition to the Carnegie institute, the Royal Geographical society, Beloit college and Count de Prorok, a member of the Franco-American African expedition. W. Bradley Tyrell, a Delavan manufacturer also will be of the party.

On the start from Tebessa, 80 camels will carry the gasoline supply, one third of which is expected to be lost through evaporation enroute, before it can be buried at the destination.

FULL BAND WILL LEAVE SATURDAY FOR SPARTA CAMP

Farewell Concert Will Be Given Public at City Park
Tonight

Thirty-six members of the 120th Field Artillery band of this city will leave at 7:30 Saturday morning for Sparta where they will spend two weeks at Camp Robinson with other military units of the Wisconsin National guard. The local men will entrain on a special starting at Green Bay, where Battery B of the heavy artillery will be picked up. These 36 men represent the full strength of the local contingent. A final concert will be given at City park by the musicians Friday night.

Eleven hundred national guardsmen of Wisconsin will gather for artillery practice. The contingent is the last of the national guard troops to go into summer camp, the other branches having completed their period at Camp Douglas.

Approximately 25 per cent of the national guard, enrollment will have attended the encampments this year. Lieut. Col. Nicholas M. Schantz, assistant adjutant general, Madison, says. About 3,500 men went to Camp Douglas. The strength of the guard is nearly 5,000.

The organizations which will take part in the tactical firing on the United States army's artillery range at Sparta include one regiment of light artillery, one battalion of heavy artillery and one ammunition train. The light artillery is composed of three batteries from La Crosse, one from Chippewa Falls, one from Merrill, one from Wisconsin Rapids and two from Stevens Point. One battery each of heavy artillery comes from Green Bay, Whitefish Bay and Hartford. The ammunition train is from River Falls.

The artillery range near here is considered one of the finest in the country, and permits firing at 8,000 yards.

HAY REPORT IN PRESS ONLY LOOKS GLOOMY

Reports in Milwaukee papers that farmers in the vicinity of Appleton have abundant hay crops but that there is practically no market are entirely true, but this fact is only natural, according to R. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent. Amundson said that it is too early for a market for hay, but that later there will be a large demand. Hay is never baled at this time of the year, which is much too early and so no market is found for the product.

The report in the Milwaukee papers stated that prices are the lowest in many years and that standing hay has sold for as low as $2 an acre. This is a very high price for this early in the season instead of a low one, Mr. Amundson said.

WINNERS FORSAKE CITY FOR REHEARSALS

John D. Winninger Stock Co., well known to people of Appleton through its visits to local theatres, has selected Fond du Lac for its 1925 rehearsals and began rehearsing this week. The company, which numbers 16 people, has rehearsed in Appleton for several years including 1924. Four new plays will be featured this year and work on these will start immediately for a two week period.

Mr. and Mrs. Winnings recently returned from the east where Mr. Winninger declares he arranged for a popular line of modern plays and securing what he expects to be one of the best all around companies he has ever assembled.

Captain William Hillman and Fireman Jacob Lohn of the Appleton fire department started Thursday on their annual vacations.

RATHER GET BALD THAN QUIT WEED

Assertion That Tobacco
Causes Baldness Has Little Effect

By Associated Press
London—Assertion by H. J. Harper-Roberts, a Manchester scientist, that smoking is one of the causes of baldness, which, he said, was greatly on the increase, has caused much comment throughout England.

If the spread of baldness was not checked, said Mr. Harper-Roberts before members of the London College of Physiology, the result would be a race of hairless people throughout the civilized world.

Baldness, the speaker averred, was more pronounced in cities than among the peasantry. There were three classes of baldness, namely, congenital senile and premature. In ten percent of the premature cases cures could be effected at a definite age by proper treatment. In cases of feverish illness or poisoning of the system, the blood pressure and low condition of the patient brought about baldness. Smoking, said the speaker, which introduced poison into the blood, was also unquestionably a cause of it.

Commenting upon the foregoing, the Telegraph says: "Europe has only known tobacco for some 400 years. There were bald men before that. Caesar, for instance, and Aeschylus. One heavy smoker, like Tennyson, goes bald, another, like Carlyle, keeps his hair on. But even if it were proven that tobacco causes baldness, we doubt whether 100 smokers in England would give up the weed."

BOY, FLEEING FATHER, HIDES IN STORE BED

Marquette — Mikola Bismarek, 15, chose a strange hiding place when he decided to run away from home after a quarrel with his father. He crawled under the bed of a model room in a local department store and waited until after the store closed. Then he went to sleep on the bed, where the night watchman found him early Wednesday morning. Mikola said that he wanted to go to the state reform school to get away from his father. He is being held at the county jail pending an investigation.

MAY BUILD ELECTRIC LINE TO STURGEON BAY

Madison — The Wisconsin railroad commission has taken under consideration the request of the Wisconsin Southern Railway company to build an electric railway line between Manitowish and Sturgeon Bay.

Charles D. Smith, of Fond du Lac, president of the company, and a number of others, including Assemblyman Anton Holly of Kewaunee, appeared at the commission's hearing in support of the application for a certificate of convenience and necessity. The application was opposed by representatives of the Green Bay and Western Railway company.

Mr. Smith and his associates declared that the line was proposed to serve 25 miles of territory between Manitowish and Sturgeon Bay, which does not have railway service at present.

Receipt of applications for this position will close Aug. 23.

Position of chief illustrative draftsman $3,600. Applications close Sept. 1. Examinations for the above positions will be held at Appleton positions except those for typist and stenographer. The nearest postoffice given are Green Bay and Oshkosh. Announcement of the dates for examinations will be announced after all applications are in.

ANOTHER BLAINE DEAL

In line with the deal fixed up between Governor Blaine and Robert La Follette, Jr., the latter has announced his candidacy for senator to fill the unexpired term of his father. He is to have the support of the governor in return for his support when Mr. Blaine seeks the senatorship in 1926. Presumably the deal has assigned the governorship to Mr. Ekern next year.

In our opinion John G. Blaine is the most unscrupulous politician Wisconsin has had in years. His handling of the administrative system of state government, his appointments, the methods by which he has kept himself in power, are such as not bear careful scrutiny. The deal which has been made for the two senatorships and the governorship is primarily by and for himself and his machine. Mr. Blaine probably thinks he is making a tool of young La Follette to further his own ambitions. Mr. La Follette, on his part, may think the same thing of Mr. Blaine. Whatever the motives, it is a bold enterprise and one that in the end will do the cause of progress no good.

Young La Follette has no real claim to the senatorship. He has not demonstrated his ability, his worth or his right to preferment in return for public service. He is not of the same caliber or mental bent as his father. He has been trained in the arts of politics, but that is all. He has had no schooling in the affairs of government, no training that fits him for the heavy responsibility of representing Wisconsin in the United States senate. His selection is due to two facts: First, the name La Follette; second, that there is no outstanding Progressive capable of filling the place occupied by Senator La Follette or of carrying on his work in a conspicuous or constructive manner. Robert La Follette, Jr. is a mere youth, and while it is true as pointed out in his behalf that he is a college graduate, his real work in public life has been confined to carrying political messages back and forth, of sitting in backroom conferences, of button-holing delegates to conventions, of handling "property" behind the scenes.

Before Robert M. La Follette, Sr., went to the United States senate he had given many years of service to the people of the state in the capacity of governor and other official trusts. He fought his way from the bottom to the top. He proved his mettle and his right to the confidence of the people in a thousand tests. Nothing of the kind can be said of the son who now seeks to become his political heir. It is one thing to be his father's messenger boy and it is another to fill the shoes of a United States senator. It is one thing to demonstrate one's merit for so high an honor and another to ask it as a pure gift, unsupported by bonafide claims based on past performances.

Presumably this is a country in which men are elevated to public office because of their proven capacity, integrity, service and the right in their own name to political recognition. It will be better for Wisconsin if it holds to this rule. Had Mr. La Follette been elected president, there would be neither rhyme nor reason in holding that the son should succeed him, for the obvious reason that he would not measure up to the high duties of that office and for the further reason that no more unsound policy could be adopted in our system of government than the right of inheritance to office. Yet young La Follette at the age of 30 aspires to an office second only to the presidency in its collective power, and for which he would never have dreamed of but for the record of his illustrious father.

TYPICAL OF CHICAGO

The shooting down of bank and payroll messengers, officers and clerks in business institutions, pedestrians on the streets and citizens in their homes, has become a tame sport in Chicago. There is no longer a thrill to bootleggers' murders and hideous crimes against individuals. Chicago has long since ceased to get a kick out of neither-world warfare and warfare on society. But it got a slight shock Wednesday when five men staged a sensational holdup of the Drake hotel in broad daylight, shooting down a clerk in cold blood, and losing two of their own gang by bullets from the police. It was as spectacular a bit of banditry as Jesse James ever undertook in his wild career. The Drake is Chicago's most fashionable hostelry, in the heart of the Gold coast, where the maximum of security is supposed to exist. It was a deluxe robbery right. The robbers got away with $10,000 and left three dead in the train.

From time to time Chicago declares war on bandits. When two or three policemen are killed, the executive authorities are aroused for a few days and a vigorous campaign against crooks, thugs and captains of the criminal world is launched. The excitement dies down, commonplace murders become the rule for a few weeks, and then something like the Drake hotel holdup is staged. Chicago is at the mercy of the criminal world because it will not assert itself sufficiently to throw off criminal control of politics and government. That is all there is to it. There are corrupt public judges, corrupt agents in every branch of government. In a broad way, the criminal world and the government of Chicago are closely related.

Nothing is safe in Chicago any more. There is no security for any person, visitor or citizen. Guests at hotels are in danger of losing their lives or their valuables. It is time the people outside of Chicago commenced to give that city a wider berth. There are other places to trade; there are other places to visit. Unless Chicago cleans house and shows some real determination to put down crime and make itself safe for life and democracy, it ought to be avoided as much as possible by the outside world, and we think it will be. There is no purpose in spending time in a city where one is liable to be shot down or robbed wherever one may be, surrounded by protection which in reality is no protection at all. Motoring into or out of Chicago is a reckless flirting with death.

PRIDE

A certain amount of humility in nations is a good thing.

No one likes to see any people too chesty.

But it seems to have been America's fate to run either to one extreme or the other.

From the Civil War to the World War we were the chestiest people in the world. Nobody could touch us—we were the people for whom the sun spun through space.

Now we seem to be inordinately humble. Does a distinguished foreigner reach our shores, what do we ask him first? Isn't it always, "What do you think of America?"

We're too worried about what others think. The first thing is to get our own estimate of ourselves sized up properly. Then we can go ahead and work for the goal our chesty ancestors set for us, and stop bothering about what our neighbors think or say.

OL' FAITHFUL

Lissen here, shoes, don't you take on the blues, 'cause I've laid you aside for a spell. Perhaps, by and by, though I'm wondering why, I will wear you again—who can tell?

You shouldn't regret when vacation you get, why, you ought to be glad of the rest. Since you came from the shelf, take a look at yourself; you'll agree you're no lookin' your best.

You've taken me 'round oodles of ground, since the day that I put you to use. I've polished and shined, but the every day grind wore you down, and you look like the deuce.

It's twice that I've given a new touch of livin', by havin' you neatly hand-soled, but not any more can you go to the store 'cause you really are growin' too old.

So, lie back and rest. It can easily be guessed what a bully good friend you have been. Though your ragged and shot, I will miss you a lot when I'm breakin' another pair in.

THE HEALTH IN THE AROMA

The kind lady who makes a huge pot of coffee at noon for the group of unfortunate she wishes to matronize, putting the coffee on to boil at 11 o'clock, and keeping the pot boiling merrily until the evening, is not an unkind person. The coffee she is making is not an unkind blessing, but please don't ask me to tell her so to her face. Her coffee is hot, but it is never as any coffee lover could wish, but it is nevertheless a crime, and the unfortunate operatives who hesitate to decline lest they injure the kind lady's feelings are entitled to some sympathy if not some cream with the tannin solution. It must be about as painful for a worker to take a cup of tannin along with his lunch as it is for the tired professional man to have to attend his lunch club and eat a second breakfast or a first dinner right in the middle of the day.

Here is another test of a good cook. A good cook never drives off the aroma when she is preparing coffee, but keeps it in the pot until you are ready to drink it. If you sniff the coffee in the hall and even away out by the front door or upstairs, either the cook has a mad on and wants to precipitate a scene or her culinary education has been sadly neglected.

The pleasant flavor of coffee is largely imparted by a volatile aromatic oil, somewhat of the type of the oil in orange peel. The volatile oil of the aromatic group are all soluble in cold water, and cold water, is used to prepare peppermint water or camphor water. Heat drives off the oil as a vapor. Bear this in mind when making coffee.

The coffee bean contains also the alkaloid, caffeine, which is the brain heart and kidney stimulant in coffee, and tannic acid. Probably a fair dose of caffeine is present in the average cup of coffee whether the coffee is well made or not. The tannic acid, however, imparts a bitter, disagreeable taste, and this is another reason why coffee should never be permitted to boil, for in boiling more of the tannic acid is extracted from the coffee, and it is prolonged or constant drinking of this tannic acid, concoction, not just a single drink, that drives men to the club, be it the Bon Ton or the Crozier bar.

And let me here add that I am, not fond of any special brand of coffee. I am referring here to coffee. Neither am I saying anything about the amount of crime and bread-and-buttered bread daily in many a church supper room. Aside from the neurological damage, boiled coffee is cruelty to even a tough stomach, for it is as bad as tanning the stomach.

This is a subject I hate to discuss, for it is sure to bring a lot of questions from readers who want to know just how I make coffee. I don't make it, except in rare emergencies. I am perfectly willing to do the chamber work when I am last man up in the morning, feed the canaries, or amuse the cat, but to make the coffee, I'm so tender hearted, for a doctor, that I can't bear the egg, and so, to settle the thing, I don't make any coffee. But lest anybody should write about it, I don't mind telling how coffee should be made. It is like this:

How to Make Coffee Good.

1. Scout around for a storekeeper who sells enough to warrant frequent fresh shipments.
2. Plunk down 53 cents for a pound of just general run coffee.
3. Don't let him grind any of it for you.
4. Have your own mill and grind each making when you are ready for it.
5. Place the freshly ground coffee in the pot, urn, loving cup or whatever the receptacle may be, with cold water, stir it up and let it stand tightly covered for at least 15 minutes, or better a few hours or over night, cold.
6. When ready to brew, add a jerk of white of egg, and stir that in the coffee, then set the pot on the fire.
7. Watch the pot, and as soon as she shows symptoms of beginning to get ready to vent to boil, snatch her off the fire and set her pot on the whetstone for a few moments to allow the coffee to settle, then serve.

LOOKING BACKWARD

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, August 3, 1900

Mrs. Fred Hammel entertained 100 guests last night at her home on Washington-st in honor of several young men who were visiting here.

C. C. Wayland was putting his apple crop up in barrels and shipping them to various parts of the state.

Charles Gressenz, town of Black Creek, had two barns destroyed by fire.

Saecker and Rogers, furniture dealers and undertakers, decided to branch out and open up a new store at Kaukauna. The store was to be in charge of Herbert Saecker, nephew of Mr. Saecker.

Edith, 20-year-old daughter of August Reffke, died yesterday at her home on Telulah-st, after an illness of three months.

W. F. Winsey leased the Kanouse residence on Third-st and was to occupy it in the near future.

Anton Stadler returned yesterday from Germany where he had been visiting friends for three months.

The Misses Nellie Golden and Lizzie Walsh went to Menominee, Mich., where they were to visit friends over the weekend.

Miss Lucy Buckland entertained a company of young people at a dancing party last evening in honor of Miss Anna Beveridge.

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, July 30, 1915.

The Plaegeer bill which would have divided Outagamie into two parts was killed in the senate late yesterday afternoon by a vote of 14 to 3. This action ended a vigorous fight put up by Appleton officials and business men to prevent such a move.

Charles Becker, New York police lieutenant, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison at 555 this morning for the murder of Herman Rosenthal a gambler. His death ended a sensational fight of three years to gain his liberty.

Mrs. Fred Hartzworm of Greenville suffered a severe injury to her left arm Wednesday afternoon when she was thrown from a buggy which was struck by an automobile driven by W. Jamison, also of Greenville.

Jacob Meyer, rural carrier on route No. 7, was the second man of the Appleton force to adopt an automobile in his work. The first was George Merkel, carrier of route 3.

Herman Kasten, Leslie Holzer and Harry Montgomery returned yesterday from a trip of several days in their gasoline yacht, "Kvik."

The Misses Elizabeth Stevens, Dorothy Ross and Ellen Moore and Arthur Mory and Edgar Thom were guests at a dinner given by Miss Maunni Moerke at Algoma Country club at Oshkosh last evening.

George F. Werner, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., delivered an address at the graduation banquet of pupils of Bushey business college at Randolph hotel last evening.

World's News Told In Brief, Simple Style

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

A bloody revolution wouldn't be surprising in Italy any day—probably not against the king who's a mere figure head, but against Benito Mussolini, the dictator.

Any revolution which unseats Mussolini, or any attempted one which he puts down, it bound to be bloody.

Thirteen months ago Deputy Matteotti of the Italian parliament was murdered. Everybody knew it was for opposing the Fascists, the political society Mussolini is head of. It was one of a series of assassinations the dictator was accused of having inspired.

The latter's underlings, however, arrested General de Bono, another big Fascist. After long delay they tried him perfunctorily and acquitted him. That ended the whole thing, so far as any accounting for the Matteotti murder was concerned.

One hundred and twenty of the dead lawmakers' fellow-deputies signed a protest against this dismissal of the case.

In retaliation members of the Fascist terrorist organization assaulted Giovanni Amendola, initial signer of the protest and anti-Fascist leader, and left him for dead. He isn't quite, but nearly.

Now the Fascists are after the other 119. This forces the anti-Fascist to fight back.

MUSSOLINI'S RULE

The Mussolini regime can't be a permanency, however this particular outbreak may wind up. A despotism, it began by making enemies. Keeping these enemies under made it more despotic.

That added to its enemies' numbers. And so on. Presently it's bound to have so many of them that it can't keep them suppressed.

MOROCCO

The French claim to be getting the better of Abdel-Krim the Moroccan rebel leader, at last. It's their own account, however. Krim might tell a different story.

He isn't completely beaten yet, anyway. Even the French don't say that.

CHINA

An American has been killed fighting bandits who were trying to loot a ranch he owned in Manchuria. Several other Americans, captured by the bandits, are held for ransom.

There practically isn't any law in the district where the affair occurred and banditry has long been rampant there. Seemingly it had nothing to do with the anti-foreign troubles which have prevailed in China recently. Foreign residents of the country, who want their various governments to intervene, are sure, however, to represent that it did.

EVOLUTION

L. H. Wittner's attempt to prove the irreconcilability of a literal acceptance of the Bible and science teaching in the Washington public schools hasn't developed into so ex-cruciating a joke as the Dayton evolution case, but it promises to develop into more of a genuine row.

Wittner's difficulty has been to establish much of a taxpayer's interest in the District of Columbia schools, nor has he had such legal talent back of him as figured in the Scopes case. However, he has succeeded in focussing attention upon the propriety, or otherwise, of letting religious "jokers" get into appropriation bills.

This inevitably will come up in

TRIBUTE TO BRYAN

Editor, Appleton Post-Crescent: A visitor in your beautiful city desires to add a little tribute to those already written about the great commoner, William Jennings Bryan.

When he took the witness stand at Dayton, Tenn., and affirmed his faith in God and the Bible, in reply to the jibes and sneers of the chief of the agnostics, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God unto salvation, to every one that believeth," the words of the Master, "Everyone therefore who shall confess me before men, him will I also confess before my Father who is in Heaven," certainly must have been brought home to those assembled at the trial.

For 30 years Mr. Bryan was in the limelight. What other public man in America has stood before the public that long, in the field of politics and religion? And now at the height of his career, the Ruler of the Universe has called him from his earthly labors to eternal rest.

Well might the words of Paul be said of this modern crusader: "I have fought the good fight; I have finished the course; I have kept the faith."

When Mr. Bryan was in the fifty-third congress he delivered the eulogy over a departed colleague, ending with these words and how applicable they are to the peerless leader himself:

"Thy day has come, not gone;
Thy sun has risen, not set;
Thy life is now beyond;
The reach of death or change;
Not ended, but begun.
O noble soul; O gentle heart;
Hail, and farewell!"

WHERE'S THE AUTHORITY?

Editor of Post-Crescent: I would like to have some information on the following points:

By what authority have the mayor and city council the right to close any public street for the benefit of a circus shown outside the corporate limits of Appleton?

By what authority have the mayor and city council the right to furnish police protection for a circus shown outside the city?

Has the city council ever taken any official action authorizing these favors to the circus shown outside the city? If not, then who has taken it upon himself to do these things and with what authority?

I wonder what effect the granting of complimentary tickets may have had on this situation.

Yours very respectfully,
A TAXPAYER.

Rohms Hold Family Picnic Next Sunday

It is expected that more than 175 members of the Rohm family will attend the second annual reunion which will take place Sunday, Aug. 2 at the John Koss farm, on the old Seymour rd. The reunion last year was attended by 145 members of the family, and the affair was made an annual event at that time.

The reunion will open with a religious service at 10 o'clock with the Rev. E. L. Worthman of Kaukauna in charge. A picnic dinner and supper will be served and all sorts of games including volleyball, baseball and horseshoe, will be on the program for amusement. There will be a business meeting immediately after the dinner, at which time it will be decided where the picnic will be held next year. All persons who attend the reunion are expected to register, so a record of the people attending from year to year may be kept.

The committee in charge of arrangements consists of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown, Otto Rohm and George Droeger. Officers are: Otto Rohm, president; George Droeger, vice president; the Rev. E. L. Worthman, secretary, John Koss, treasurer.

TRY OUT ZION ORGAN TONIGHT

The organ of Zion Lutheran church has been overhauled and tuned and everything is in readiness for the demonstration to be given at 7:30 Friday evening in the church. H. ## FRAME DRASTIC STAUTTE TO END LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Purchaser Equally Guilty With Bootlegger According to Indiana Law

By Associated Press

Indianapolis—The purchaser of intoxicating liquors is equally as guilty of having violated the prohibition laws in Indiana as the bootlegger, under provisions of the Wright bone dry bill passed by the state legislature and which became effective in June.

Under the new law, considered among the most drastic, possession of liquor also is a crime. A defect in the previous state prohibition act caused several courts to rule that possession of itself was not a crime. The definition of "liquor" also has been simplified, and included in the list are Jamaica ginger and lemon extract "reasonably likely or intended to be used as a beverage." Wine, however, is exempted for sacramental purposes.

Provision also has been made for more severe penalties for first, second and subsequent violations of the law. It denies the court the power to suspend sentence in third and subsequent convictions in the clause prohibiting transportation. Violations of both sections is made a felony, and prison sentence on any conviction is made mandatory.

The penalty for public intoxication has been increased, making it a fine of from $10 to $100, to which may be added six months' imprisonment in jail. Second conviction of driving an automobile while intoxicated is a felony, and the law provides that the court shall prohibit the person from driving a vehicle for not more than a year.

The law also removes all property right in liquor kept contrary to the act, or to any receptacle or vehicle in which liquor is kept, and provides that they are at once forfeit to the state.

Where fluid is poured out, destroyed or carried away by the tenant or other person when premises are being searched the fluid shall be prima facie intoxicating liquor and intended for unlawful possession and sale. Other outstanding points of the act are:

Provision for impeachment and removal of any state, county, township or municipal officer, or municipal police who refuse, neglect or fail to discharge their duty in enforcing the law, and that trial be without jury.

Where any prosecutor fails to do his duty, the attorney-general may assume charge and employ whatever deputies necessary.

If a witness for the state in a prosecution under the liquor laws testifies in a manner to incriminate himself, he shall be immune from prosecution for violation of the act growing out of or pertaining to the particular transaction concerning which he testifies.

DRUNK HAD TO SLEEP IN JAIL

Lodge Pleas and Begging Couldn't Get Him Out of McCarty's Hotel

Kaukauna—A stranger in this city partook excessively of the forbidden amber fluid Wednesday afternoon and when languor overtook him he took advantage of the chairs on the railroad grounds near the south side depot for a short nap. Although not guilty of disorderly conduct the police department thought it best to take the man under its wing and as a result the drunk spent the night in the "cooler."

The stew was not especially interested in the prospect of having a bed in the city's barred hotel and pleaded piteously with Chief R. H. McCarty for release. The stranger, who said he hails from Eau Claire, evidently had heard that policemen are generous with men who belong to their lodge. At any rate he demands his freedom on the grounds that he was a good Odd Fellow but it happened that the chief is not a member of that organization and his request was not granted.

The man was practically penniless and there really was not cause enough to send him to the workhouse so he was released Thursday morning after having sobered up.

COPS LENIENT WITH TOURISTS

Congestion Since Streets Were Closed Makes Some Jump Arterials

Kaukauna—Since the closing of Taylor and Draper-sts traffic on Lave-st and Wisconsin-ave has greatly increased. Wisconsin-ave is full of foreign cars. According to the police department, very little trouble is being experienced with traffic violators.

A few of the foreign drivers who come through are so busy watching the detour signs that they slip through arterials without stopping. Officers have been keeping close tabs at all stop signs during the last few days and occasionally a violator is caught. The police department does not believe in arresting strange drivers and they are usually allowed to proceed after their attention is called to their laxity.

HE'LL STOP AT ARTERIALS NOW

Patrolman McFadden Gives Odd Tourist 5-minute Traffic Lesson

Kaukauna—One man claiming Illinois as his home probably won't forget what an arterial stop sign means should he happen to pass this way again. Although the man was not arrested he was subjected to inconvenience enough to make him remember.

It was this way:
The man, whose name was not determined, came down Wisconsin-ave in an old trap bearing an Illinois license plate. It was about 4:15 Thursday afternoon and Officer James McFadden occupied his customary station on the corner. The car sid past the arterial onto Lave-st and would have continued peacefully on his way had not McFadden been on the job.

The officer brought the driver of the car to a sudden halt and after explaining that the arterial sign is for the protection of the autoist, caused the car to back up and rest for five minutes while the driver meditated upon the joys of motoring. All this time the engine purred softly but alas, when the ill fated driver was allowed to pass on the engine gave a few weary puffs and died.

The stranger fretted and sweated and cranked but it was several minutes before the ancient wheels were aroused from their lethargy and were coaxed into sputtering motion. The subdued car finally limped away under cautious manipulation of the driver who left Kaukauna a wiser man.

FINISH AREA CATTLE TEST

Ten Carloads Out of Sixty Thousand Head Are Found to React

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The state and federal veterinarians have finished their task of testing all of the cattle in Waupaca-co. The job was completed with the testing of the herds at Union and Dupont.

The total number of cattle tested was approximately 60,000. This is about 10 per cent. more cattle than any one estimated there was in the county. Every dairyman whose herd contained one or more reactors will be obliged to clean up his premises in a manner designated by the officials before any of the indemnity money will be paid to them. Not a single case of resistance was found that required the veterinarians to take legal action, or to take the cattle by force.

The entire herds of two farmers residing in the county were completely wiped out by the test. About ten carloads of cattle which reacted to the test, and were found to be infected with tuberculosis, were shipped from this city and vicinity to stockyards in Chicago.

This test leaves all cattle in Waupaca-co entirely free from tuberculosis in any form, and assures all milk users that the milk they drink is pure in every degree.

Nokol fuel cost

Fuel cost in oil burning is tied up with efficient operation. If your oil burner causes soot, this means high fuel cost. If it depends upon brick-work to concentrate the flame, this means high fuel cost until the bricks become hot. Nokol, with its patented combustion chamber, reaches the 1600° necessary for complete combustion in 30 seconds. To do the same thing with brick-work requires as long as an hour.

The Nokol Combustion Chamber produces three important results. First, it eliminates soot. Second, it makes the fuel cost of Nokol less than that of hard coal and to the best of our knowledge less than that of any other oil burner regardless of the grade of oil used. Third, Nokol is not forced to resort to the grade of oil commonly used to oil country roads because of inefficient operation.

Make sure of having your Nokol by Fall. 22,000 homes, from the smallest bungalow to the apartment building, are today Nokol heated. More Nokols are being sold today than ever before. Get in touch with us today. Call or phone.

FILL THAT COAL BIN NOW

COAL STORAGE REQUIRES HOME COOPERATION

Total of 26,291,530 Homes Have Coal Bins That Require Filling

Coal, like most of the other products used by man today, must be prepared or produced long before it is actually required for actual base. Unlike other products, however, it cannot be stored by its producers to await the call of the consumer.

When one reflects that there are 26,291,530 homes in the United States and that every one of these homes has a bin with a capacity of 500 cubic feet or more, which must be filled with coal once or twice each season, it is not hard to imagine the enormous home demand for fuel.

Add to this the demand of industry, which is even larger than the home demand and you must appreciate the task that confronts Appleton coal dealers and the thousands of other coal dealers the country over.

The industrial demand is spread over the whole year. The home demand over but a single season of the year. The greatest problem faced by coal producers, coal shippers and coal retailers is that of persuading home owners to use their empty coal bins as the logical storage points for fuel that would otherwise not be called for until September.

Picture if you will the confusion occasioned by 26,291,530 home owners all calling for their fuel during this one month and you can appreciate the logical, common sense motive back of your coal dealer's injunction to "Buy your coal early."

MARQUETTE IS ASPIRING HIGH, SAYS ITS COACH

Murray Tells Alumni Here of School and Athletic Expansion Plans

"Marquette university's program of scholarship combined with its athletic program will make the institution as internationally famous as any college or university in the world, so that it will be an unrivaled honor to be counted as a Marquette graduate," said Frank Murray, football and basketball coach of Marquette university, Milwaukee, in an address at a banquet of 200 Appleton and Menasha Marquette alumni at Hotel Northern Thursday noon.

Coach Murray told of the progress made by Marquette university in the last few years, of the progress of Marquette athletic teams, and spoke of the future athletic programs. He said that Marquette was growing rapidly, that the enrollment this year was about 5,000 and that in a few years it would probably approximate 10,000. The reason for this rapid increase in enrollment he said was the excellence of the professional schools such as dental, law, medical, journalism, commerce and engineering which make up the university.

NEED BIG STADIUM
A large development in the expansion of the athletic program is being planned, according to Coach Murray. The present football stadium seats 22,000 persons, and it will be necessary to enlarge the seating capacity to 35,000 in the near future.

Nine games have been scheduled for the coming Marquette football season according to Coach Murray. Eight of these games will be played in Milwaukee, the only game away from the home gridiron being at Annapolis, Md., when Marquette plays the United States naval academy. Teams from several states will play the Marquette eleven in the fall. These teams hail from Illinois, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Maryland and Georgia.

In connection with football Coach Murray said that no school ever had the "greatest team in the world." He said that Marquette did not want the greatest team in the world, but rather a winning team made up of the caliber of men who were a combination of good scholars and good athletes, and who could get out into the world after graduation and earn a good living, aided somewhat by the experiences they had as athletes at Marquette.

ATHLETES ARE WORKERS
Coach Murray said that the great bulk of athletes at Marquette are students in the various professional and technical schools of the university, and for this reason it is somewhat difficult to get the whole football squad or basketball squad together at one time for practice. The professional work at the university takes much of the student's time, as there are classes and laboratory periods through the whole day. Mr. Murray also stated that most of the students at Marquette were paying all or part of their way through school by working in the city of Milwaukee. These outside jobs, he said, are a great handicap to practice periods, in spite of the fact that the students should be given great credit for earning their way through school.

"Everyone of the Marquette squad of 33 men who went to Annapolis to play the naval academy last fall had some outside job, and were either paying part or all of their own way through the university."

"Marquette has no quarrel with the University of Wisconsin of any other college of the state or middle west," said Mr. Murray. He remarked that many people seem to think that Marquette and the state university were "bugbears" to each other, and that ill feeling existed between the two institutions especially in athletics. He said that he wanted to see the state university team win every game they played except when they played Marquette, and that this statement applied to Lawrence as well. Every game that Marquette, Lawrence or state university athletic teams can win will add just so much more prestige to the athletic prestige of this state and to that of the middle west, he declared.

NOT MUCH CHANGE IN BUILDING COST HERE

Building materials are selling at about the same price they were in July 1924 according to Appleton dealers. They report that this is not such a big building year as last year as all big building projects in the city have been practically completed and no new buildings of any considerable size have been started recently. Home building in Appleton is about the same as that of last year, they say.

athletics, was spoken of in the highest terms by Coach Murray. He said that Mr. Denney was an exceptionally fine coach and that he had done much to place Lawrence in the front rank in athletics. Mr. Murray said he did not know Mark Cutlin, Lawrence football coach, personally, but rated him as a wonderful coach. He said that he would have liked very much to schedule a football game with Lawrence this coming fall, and try and avenge the two defeats Lawrence handed to Marquette in basketball last winter, but that the Lawrence schedule was already filled with Little Five and Midwest conference games. He added, however, that a post season game might be arranged between the two schools.

In speaking of alumni Coach Murray said that Marquette graduates trained in the professional schools of the university, included men prominent in all professions in cities all over the United States, and that it was the duty of these men to talk Marquette, take an active interest in their alma mater and live a life in their community which would make them respected and looked up to. He concluded by saying that the professional men of a community were as a rule its most respected citizens, and that it was the duty of Marquette alumni to keep this respect and exert their influences for the good of their alma mater.

Coach Murray said that no school ever had the "greatest team in the world." He said that Marquette did not want the greatest team in the world, but rather a winning team made up of the caliber of men who were a combination of good scholars and good athletes, and who could get out into the world after graduation and earn a good living, aided somewhat by the experiences they had as athletes at Marquette.

BETTER CAMP FOR TEACHERS

State Fair Will Be More Attractive to Mentors, Meeting Says

Teachers of Outagamie county who decide to attend the state fair at Milwaukee from Aug. 31 to Sept. 5, will have "all the comforts of home" at the 1925 teachers' camp, according to a letter from Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, state leader of home economics extension, received by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. The camp will be better equipped and have more attractions than ever before. A real camp house is to be built in order to avoid all the uncomfortable conditions of past years. The county is allowed to send as many teachers as it wishes to attend the fair and every woman county superintendent or county supervisor has been extended a special invitation to spend a week at the camp. Campers may arrive on Monday and stay until Saturday, and the cost of entrance to the grounds for the week, board, lodging, lectures and the whole fair will be $7.

Mr. Meating has been asked to send a list of the names of the county representatives at the camp to headquarters by Aug. 8 so that each teacher can be sent a list of articles for her comfort and a pass to the grounds. He expects a large group to attend from Outagamie county and requests that teachers notify him as soon as possible. The camp is excellent and one of the features of the teachers' work at the fair, Mr. Meating said.

Do Pennies Block Your Dollar Vision?

POOR, cheap motor fuel would like nothing better than to have the trifling penny-saving of its gallon price held so close to your eye that you'd lose sight of the certain dollar-loss beyond.

What does it care about the poor running of your car, the permanent harm to your motor from the shocks of habitual missing and ragged explosions? Does it pay the damages that result from your oil being thinned and impoverished by the deadly drip of kerosene? Using——is keeping your eye on the main chance—with the sound far-sightedness of holding your car smooth-running—free from the destructive battering of constant misses, and unharmed by trust in worn-out lubricating oil that is treacherously kept to level by unknown additions of kerosene.

ALDERMEN CAN'T SMOOTH RUCTION OVER SEWER NEED

Efforts to Bring Fourth Ward
Folk into Harmony at Hearing Futile

Efforts at cooperation between property owners of the lower Fourth ward with respect to obtaining a sewer on S. Welmer-st failed at the hearing conducted by the council in committee of the whole session in the city hall Thursday evening.

The "cooperation" offered by the petitioners or a sewer was likened by sewer opponents to the kind of cooperation that the monkey offered the cat on getting chestnuts out of the fire coals.

Residents at the hearing admitted that Fourth warders had been fighting each other for years, and that every move for a street improvement entails not only a fight with city authorities but also a fight among themselves.

After hearing arguments for and against the sewer project the council decided to defer action until after the citywide sewer survey has been completed. Robert M. Connelly, city engineer, in answer to questions from aldermen declared that if the sewer was extended to E. John-st, it would be about 1,200 feet long, and if extended as far as E. John-st about 3,200 feet. A 24-inch sewer would cost the city about $3 a foot, or approximately $10,000 for the greater project, he estimated. If only a sanitary sewer is contemplated, it should be larger than 12 inches, he advised, as a pipe, of that diameter would not be able to carry away the surface water from which people in this section are suffering.

BOTH SIDES HEARD
Those who led the arguments for the sewer project were William Knofke and his son August Nofke. August and Henry Horn also spoke in favor of it. Those speaking in opposition to it were Henry Reck, John Wisnet, Albert Hoppe, Mrs. Catherine Koehn and her daughter Miss Frances Koehn. About 25 residents of the ward came to the hearing.

The elder Mr. Nofke described flood conditions in that part of the ward. He said that cellars are filled with water after every heavy rain, and that the residents not only can do nothing to prevent it but also nothing to remove it.

"We just have to let the water evaporate, that's all," he said. "We have tried taking it out, with wash tubs and you know how that works out. I have about $50 damages every year. Conditions like this make our property almost worthless. One could easily give away a stick of gum than give away an acre of land here. We wouldn't ask for a sewer unless it were necessary. It is as necessary as bread and butter on the table. We ought to stand together on this thing and do what is good for all of us. We have petitioned for a sewer and others have put in a remonstrance against it, but only three persons who are actual residents on Welmer-st have signed the remonstrance."

CELLARS ALWAYS FLOODED
The younger Nofke said he had become tired of working hard all day for himself and then working hard at night for others in removing the water from the basement. He said he would sometimes have as much as 22 inches of water in his basement, and after pumping eight or nine hours would still have 16 inches of water. Some help themselves by running a 3 or 4-inch sewer to a creek, he said, but a sewer so small will soon clog up from dish water, he argued. The older people in the district may be satisfied with things as they are, but the younger people want service, he said. Water often stood on Candeest a foot deep, he declared.

Mr. Reck, opposing the project, said he had lived in the district 32 years and had not complained. He said the larger property owners did not propose to "rake chestnuts out of the fire" for those who wanted a sewer. The cost to some, he argued, would be immense, since they have frontage of 800 to 1,000 feet and the properties are not worth the expense of a sewer.

Albert Hoppe said that before he would pay for so expensive a sewer he would rather give his land away to the city. He has lived there for 20 years and has a frontage of 500 feet.

Mrs. Koehn believed that even a 15-inch sewer would not help conditions, as the surface water would still remain. She has a frontage of 410 feet. The petition for a sewer, if granted, would soon be followed with petitions for water and sidewalk, all of which would be too big a burden for her. Miss Koehn ridiculed the talk of "getting together," and said that no one had approached them for support of the project.

Alderman Charles Fose, chairman of the street committee, said that the assessments might not be as great as feared, as the tax is based upon a valuation of benefit and damages. Engineer Connelly estimated that the cost to the property owner would not exceed 50 cents a foot on each side of the street.

Back From Trip
B. E. Mayerhoff, general field man of the Aid Association for Lutherans, has returned from a trip through upper Michigan peninsula in the interest of the association. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mayerhoff and the Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Ziesemer who made it a pleasure trip. The trip covered a total of 1,077 miles. ## SAVING STANDS OUT IN COOLIDGE RECORD restraint as in affirmative action. And by that standard must all impressions of him be measured.

If Mr. Coolidge were to be asked wherein his term of office thus far differs from that of preceding presidents, he probably would say that it has been less spectacular or perhaps less picturesque. Nobody knows better than he does how difficult it is to dramatize statistics, and after all, the biggest single achievement of Mr. Coolidge's career—one that will live after him no matter what happens in the next years of his public service—is his insistence on economy in government expenditure and a reduction in income taxes.

GO HAND IN HAND
These two things go hand in hand. They afford, however, no opportunity to reveal in public the character and positiveness of a presidential mind in action upon them.

Only the cabinet officers and their subordinates know that with utter simplicity, yet with an earnestness and even a severity which could not be misunderstood, Mr. Coolidge told the personnel of the government from high to low station that "economy" meant economy. It requires political nerve to refuse to sanction expenditures sought here and there by influential members of congress. It requires considerable patience to conceal the irritation that rises every now and then when economy is disregarded and the presidential policy really flouted.

General Lord, director of the budget, has stood at the president's elbow or at the end of telephone for nearly two years and he knows the battle that Calvin Coolidge has waged quietly to make the word economy a reality instead of a piece of political demagoguery.

LESSONS DEBTS
Mr. Coolidge has the type of mind which gives weight to the opinion of his advisors. He learned early that the soundness of the policy started by the treasury department immediately after the war and continued by secretary Mellon on an even broader scale—namely the retirement of the big public debt. He saw, too, the necessity of bringing income tax rates down so as to make the total revenues larger. On the essentials of the Mellon theory of taxation, Mr. Coolidge found himself in absolute accord with the treasury. And then came the use of executive influence to secure the enactment of that policy. Mr. Coolidge did not succeed in the first attempt as well as he might. He was inclined to let the treasury deal with the leaders in congress. He was a bit new in office himself.

Now, however, things have changed. Mr. Coolidge is stronger—or at least feels himself stronger—with public opinion—than congress. He will insist upon further economy and further reductions in taxes. He will insist upon further economy and further reductions in taxes. He will stake everything on that and regard the previous defeats he has received at the hands of congress as due to his own undeveloped strength rather than any inherent flaw in his proposals.

SUFFERED FROM DEFEATS
For to be sure, Mr. Coolidge has suffered some defeats of Capitol hill—one of them within a few days after he had been inaugurated, truly an unprecedented reverse. But it has not hurt him politically with his own party, and disinterested observers question whether it has affected him at all outside of congress.

Mr. Coolidge's handling of Congress thus far has not been as successful as that of past presidents. Yet the shrewdest thing Mr. Coolidge has done in two years was to recognize that either he or congress had to ret the stronger hold on public opinion. So he consented, even urged, a long recess for congress. Meanwhile he has had the stage to himself and has been able to keep out of controversy and to let enough things alone with the Republican party, at least, if not with many conservatives of other political beliefs, he has increased his hold. He is rewarded by them as a self-assured, careful, even-tempered, safe and sane executive—something they have yearned for al-

HAILED 3 INCHES AROUND SEYMOUR

Crops Are Flattened by Freak
Storm Occuring There on Thursday

A severe hail and windstorm visited the vicinity of Seymour at about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon doing considerable damage to the crops on farms. The hail covered the ground to a depth of two or three inches and some of it was still there Friday morning. Hailstones as big as robin's eggs fell.

The storm was at its worst in the southern half of the city. It was about a mile wide in area and moved eastward to the northern part of Oneida and Seymour and to Shawano co. Although no damage was done to buildings, grain has been flattened as result of the wind, rain and hail.

The Weather

WEATHER FOR WISCONSIN
Partly overcast tonight and Saturday. Cooler in southeast portion tonight. Continued cool Saturday.

GENERAL WEATHER
Low pressure persisted over the Ohio valley and the southern portion of the Lake region Friday morning. Showers have fallen over much of the ward during the past 24 hours, as well as over portions of the southwest. Rain still was falling Friday morning from Lake Michigan southeastward. High pressure and fair weather continues in the northwest with near frost temperatures over the northern plains. This high is expected to cause generally fair and cool weather to continue here over Saturday and probably Sunday.

REFUSES ORDER TO STOP PAVING AT BLACK CREEK

Judge Werner Rules Against Injunction—Contractor
Will Resume

Paving work on the main street of Black Creek, on highway 47 will be started in earnest Monday morning as a result of the decision of Judge Edgar V. Werner on the injunction proceedings against the Garvey-Weyenberg Construction Co. of Appleton, contractors on the paving job. The court denied the action for a permanent injunction against the local firm Thursday afternoon at the end of a 2-day trial. The only matters left unsettled was the costs of the action which was held open until a latter date.

The Garvey-Weyenberg Co. had started the work sometime ago and had completed the grading. Paving was held up pending the decision of the court in the case. Work on culverts was started Wednesday and will be completed Saturday. The pavement will be ready for use this summer, according to reports. Travelers on highway 47 have had to detour over a rough, narrow road for several miles or take the half-completed rough roadbed through the village. The village of Black Creek is said to have lost several thousand dollars since the work was held up by tourists passing around the place.

The action was started by George Reich of Black Creek, a taxpayer, on the contention that the bid of the contracting company was not the low bid and that the taxpayers would have to pay the difference. All bids below the Garvey-Weyenberg bid were thrown out by the county highway commission because of irregularities connected with them, the defendants testified. Judge Werner stated that it was an injustice to hold up the work on such a widely-traveled road.

BOEHM HEARING SET FOR AUG. 18

Autoist Who Hit Beschta Is Released Under Bail of $700

Anton Boehm, Calumet Harbor resort keeper, charged with failure to stop his car and render assistance after striking a pedestrian, was freed on $700 bond when he was arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday afternoon. Preliminary hearing in the case was set for 10 a. m. on Aug. 18. Ben J. Beschta of Appleton, the man struck by Boehm, is unable to appear against him as yet because of his condition.

Boehm struck Beschta Tuesday evening, July 21, as he was crossing the street after getting off an east-bound interurban at the corner of E. North and N. Morrison-sts. Beschta was knocked to the pavement and Boehm continued on his way, going around a block to avoid pursuit and then returning to the Northwestern depot where he had an appointment. Beschta suffered a broken ankle and serious injuries to his head.

THOUSANDS ARE EXPECTED AT BAND CONCERT

Soloists and Guest Conductors
Will Feature Farewell
Program Tonight

Thousands of people from Appleton, Outagamie-co and the Fox River valley will flock to City park Friday evening to hear the 120th Field Artillery band give its big farewell concert. The program has been widely advertised and the attendance is expected to break all patronage records in the Fox River valley. The band will leave Saturday for Camp Robinson, Sparta, for two weeks, and will be the feature musical organization for the artillery national guardsmen from all over Wisconsin. An attractive program has been completed by Edward F. Mumm, director of the band. The band numbers on the program are of the best and there will be numerous vocal solos by well known and popular singers as feature numbers. Percy Fullinwider, professor of violin at Lawrence Conservatory of music, and former conductor of the band, will act as guest conductor in directing a suit from "Don Quixote," and Can. Fred B. Rogers will also be a guest conductor and direct the band in the playing of "Follow Me," a military march, for which he composed the band arrangement.

Among the vocal soloists will be Isabel Wilcox, a graduate of Lawrence Conservatory of music in the department of voice, and a star pupil from the studio of Dean Carl J. Waterman. Miss Wilcox, who will sing "In Shadowland" at the concert, will teach in the department of voice at the Lawrence conservatory the coming year as an assistant to Dean Carl J. Waterman.

Other soloists are George Nixon, well known tenor who will sing "The Sunshine of Your Smile," and "There's a Long Long Trail," Ray M. Peeters of Neenah, who will sing "Follow Me," the band composition of Capt. Rogers, and Miss Marie Schommer who will sing a duet with Mr. Peters.

E. N. SMITH IS MADE CHAIRMAN OF CAMPAIGN

Committee of 35 Business Men, Will Guide Welfare Fund Canvass

Edward N. Smith, manager of the Tuttle Press Co., has accepted the chairmanship of the Appleton committee which will conduct the campaign for Appleton's $5,000 quota of the nationwide $5,000,000 American legion endowment drive for the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers, and care of war widows and war orphans. Many of the cities of the state have already held their campaigns for their share of the endowment, and have raised their quota. It is expected that the campaign in Appleton, which will be under way soon, will be wound up in a very short space of time with a subscription well over the top.

"The Legion is asking the American public to make possible the continuance of its work for the disabled and for the children of those who answered their country's call in time of war," said Mr. Smith in accepting the chairmanship. "America, which poured out millions so generously for the war orphans of Europe, will not fail its own," he said.

15 DEATHS DAILY
Statistics show that disabled veterans of the World war are dying at the rate of 15 a day. To rescue disabled soldiers and give them temporary care and permanent cure is the objective of the American legion, and that is the reason why it now seeks a $5,000,000 endowment fund to guarantee for all time the adequate financing of its rehabilitation work.

Five thousand war orphans have no relatives and are now in need of care of some kind, a survey by the veterans bureau shows.

OWE AN OBLIGATION
The American Legion is seeking to meet the country's obligations to these orphans through the fund now being raised. Mr. Smith stated that the purpose back of the American legion drive was such that no man could refuse to lend his support to the movement.

There are 35 members of the Appleton legion endowment drive committee besides Mr. Smith. They are: A. F. Tuttle, William C. Wing, G. E. Buchanan, A. B. Wessenhorn, G. W. Jones, William Van Nortwick, E. A. Peterson, Judson G. Rosebush, F. J. Harwood, John Conway, Mayor John Goodland, R. S. Powell, B. J. Zuehlke, Joseph Koffend, Jr., Karl Stansbury, Dr. Victor F. Marshall, Charles L. Marston, Joseph Steele, F. E. Bachman, Raymond Peterson, H. J. Pettigrew, F. S. Bradford, O. P. Schlarf, Mrs. Frank E. Holbrook, Mrs. S. C. Shannon, Mrs. John S. Van Nortwick, A. K. Ellis, George Baldwin, Charles Boyd, William Zuehlke, Gustave Keller, John Derrich, H. L. Dapis, Hon. George J. Schneider.

BANDITS MAKE ESCAPE WHEN VICTIM SHOOTS

Eau Claire—When A. E. Weichel was called from his bed early Wednesday by knocks and opened the door he found two revolvers in the hands of two strangers pointed at his head and was ordered to unlock the screen door. He refused and one of the bandits shot into the air, evidently to frighten Weichel.

Weichel had more success in frightening the others, for when he replied by shooting through the screen with a small rifle the two dashed to a waiting automobile and drove away.

Neighbors, awakened by the shots, rushed out with guns but the holdup men had disappeared.

YOUNG GIRLS ARE HELD ON SHOPLIFTING CHARGE

Oshkosh—Elizabeth Schwenker, 17, of Park Falls and Katherine Otto, 15, of Green Bay were taken into custody by police on a charge of shoplifting. It is said that some of the stolen goods were found in possession of the girls, including dresses and a ring. A petition as to the Schwenker girl, an alleged incorrigible, has been filed and the hearing has been set for Aug. 11. The girl probably will be arraigned Friday on a charge of larceny.

GEM STORE "PATRON" STEALS TRAY OF RINGS

Sheboygan—Two men walked into the jewelry store of Mrs. Florence Grasser Wednesday and while the proprietress was waiting on one of them the other took a tray of rings valued at approximately $400. The man Mrs. Grasser was waiting on entered the store first and asked to be shown a woman's wrist watch. The other came in later and while the first engaged Mrs. Grasser's attention, the former made his escape. The police have been unable to trace the pair.

Armless Man Is Prodigy At Swimming, Writing, Dressing And Keeping House

TO swim across the Fox river at its greatest width is regarded by some a feat worth boasting about, but Arno Jungmann, Appleton armless prodigy, would consider it merely a daily "keep-fit" exercise.

Jungmann recently swam from his river shanty clear to Kimberly, a distance of three and a half miles. "Two boys, Walter Noffke and Floyd Hill, followed in a skiff. On the way back Jungmann took the boat and did the paddling himself, as the boys were not so familiar as he in managing a boat upstream.

The armless man is almost a fish for he practically lives in the water. The trouble of dressing and undressing does not bother him; he gets out of his clothes into his bathing suit and out of his bathing suit back into his clothes quicker than a man without his handicap.

He, however, does not regard the lack of his hands as a handicap. While others might fret over the least indisposition, he feels quite contented with his lot and knows well how to shift for himself.

MAIMED ON RAILROAD
Strictly speaking, Jungmann is not an armless man. He still retains his upper arms. They are severed about an inch below the elbows. He lost the lower part of his limbs in a railroad accident 27 years ago. As a boy of 15 years he frequently hovered about his recent swimming feat and went down to see the way he does it. Jungmann had just finished a swim and was paddling his skiff back from his raft which he uses for a floating dock. "What time is it?" he asked. "I want to make that 3:15 interurban car going to the lake."

The reporter took great delight in informing him that it was about 3 o'clock and that he couldn't possibly catch that car. The half hour interval between cars gave him the opportunity for the interview he wished.

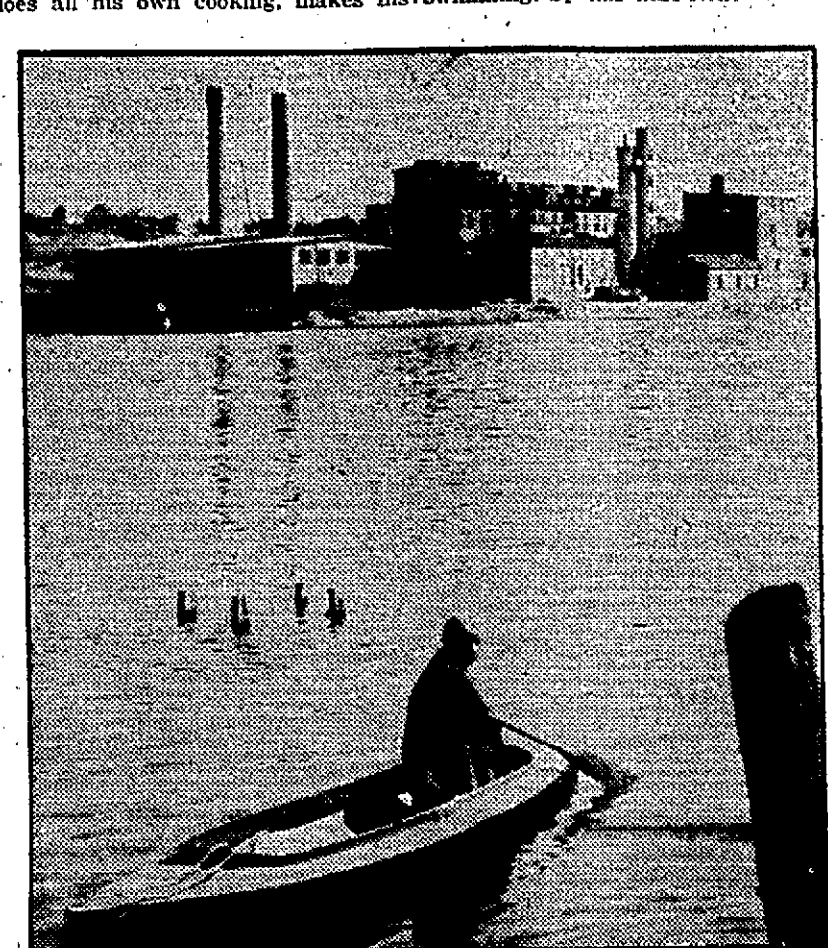

Jungmann was very agreeable to his visitor but was somewhat shy of the camera. Not that he was afraid something would jump out of it and bite while he wasn't looking, but he didn't like to be snapped just as he was. He was amenable, however, when told that "fussing up" for a picture would only spoil it all.

The door of his cabin was locked, and while the reporter was wondering who locked it and how he was going to get back into the cabin, Jungmann took a key tied to a string, squeezed it between the stubs of his arms and deftly inserted it into the lock and opened the door.

ENJOYS A JOKE
The platform before the door has several big cracks in it, and the reporter stood starnig at a large one directly below the lock in the door. "Aren't you ever afraid you might pull on the rest of the sock. He doesn't need the stick and hook when his feet are dry. Putting on his shoes is done by means of the same hook with which he also slips the shoe laces over the hooks. The ends of the laces are always kept tied.

bed, sweeps the floor and does all the other duties of housekeeping.

He prepares his own breakfast but the other two meals usually are eaten at the home of his sister. He does not require a good deal of money for his simple mode of living and he earns it by trapping in the winter time. Of course, he sets his own traps. He picks up the flossam of the river and splits it up himself for firewood.

He amuses himself by paddling about in his skiff or swimming. The weeds are rather dense close to shore; hence he keeps a raft some distance from it to dive from. He could swim before he lost his arms, but after that accident he had to learn all over again, and no one showed him how.

NO ARTIFICIAL LIMBS
Arno Jungmann would be a hard customer for an artificial arm salesman, for he says he can prove to him that he can do all the things that an artificial limb can do. Yes, he can even write. He says he wasn't much of a penman before he lost his arms, but no one will question his ability in that respect now. Slipping a pen or pencil between the stubs he executes the muscle movement that children are taught in school.

At the end of the interview the conversation drifted back to the swimming. By this time Arno had lost

ASSAILS LAWS WHICH HINDER POWER GROWTH

Orbison Speaks at Neenah
Rotary Luncheon on Valley
Situation

Neenah—Neenah, Appleton, Menasha or perhaps any of the beautiful cities along the Fox river would not be here had it not been for the water power developed from the steady drop from Lake Winnebago to Green Bay," stated Eugene Orbison of Appleton, in an interesting talk before the Rotary club Thursday noon after its weekly luncheon.

Mr. Orbison is of the firm Orbison & Orbison, waterpower experts, and has been associated with river activities since his boyhood days. "Waterpower," he remarked, "made Neenah, starting in its early days to drive the wheels of the flour and grist mills with its old-fashioned equipment. It has been developed through the years until now the old-fashioned water wheels have given way to the most efficient, latest improved turbines propelling the machinery of some of the greatest mills and manufacturing plants in the country."

MUCH LEFT UNTOUCHED

"Out of the 600,000,000 horsepower of waterpower available in the world, only about 6,000,000 has been developed," Wisconsin has only 300,000 developed. The resources are continuous and only await development." Here Mr. Orbison made a plea for the encouragement of development and conservation of the natural resources which go to make the everlasting waterpower.

Cities become dead where great waterpower has gone to waste for lack of upkeep and interest in development, he pointed out. "Business is gone and the people have no manufacturing plants to hold them as citizens. Laws of the state which are against this development are food for correction by the people of the state, especially that which lets a community develop and build dams for waterpower purposes only to be turned over to the state at the expiration of 30 years. The dams are then allowed to deteriorate and become useless for want of upkeep. Such is the case right in Appleton where a suit is being filed to come up in the fall. "These laws," said Mr. Orbison, "make it prohibitive for development. What will become of the mills below that dam if the laws are enforced and the dam allowed to become useless?"

UTILIZE FALLS
Mr. Orbison gave interesting data on the development of immense waterpower in the last few years from the falls of Niagara, where one wheel at the present time will provide 70,000 horsepower compared to the entire horsepower developed in Appleton which totals 12,000 from a fall of 30 feet.

He pointed out that the first hydraulic central station in the world was located on the west canal in Appleton and how his father was one of the first to work on the development of waterpower in the state, the first being completed at Niagara, when water driven machinery was in its infancy in this country.

40 ARRESTS IN MONTH OF JUNE

New Ordinance for Stop-go
Lights Is Expected to Add
More

Neenah—A total of 40 arrests is reported by Charles Watts, chief of police, as having been made during the month of July in the city of Neenah. Of these the majority were for intoxication and disorderly conduct upon the streets of Neenah, while several paid fines of $100 and costs for operating an automobile upon the streets while in an intoxicated condition. Reckless driving arrests were frequent during the month.

Next month, it is expected, the report of the chief will be large, as the city is soon to demand a fine of $5 from any person driving through the intersection of Wisconsin-ave and Commercial-st when the stop and go signal is set against him. An ordinance was passed at the last meeting of the city council to that effect.

FOREIGN LEGION DRAWS WAYFARER OF MANY A LAND

Forty Americans, Some Only
Self-styled, in Historical
Unit of French Army

By Associated Press
Paris—Approximately 40 self-styled Americans are now serving in the famous Foreign legion of the French army, scattered in Algeria, Morocco, Syria and Tonkin. But how many of that two-score are really citizens of the United States the French war department is unable to say. All it knows is that within the past three years 40 men, describing themselves as Americans, have enlisted.

The reason for lack of accurate data on these self-styled or self-styled Americans is that the French army requires absolutely no identity papers of applicants for service in its renowned expeditionary corps. A German who has never been any farther west than Frankfurt-on-the-Main may present himself before a recruiting officer and join the legion under the name of Otto Schmidt, American, born in Hoboken. Similarly a Pole may join up as Stanislas Skrzyzinski, American, born and bred in Cleveland. Provided the applicant meets the physical requirements, which are fairly stiff, the French recruiting authorities make no investigation. "No questions asked," is the legion's rule.

The Legion Etrangere was founded "to offer refuge," according to the minister of King Louis Philippe who organized it in 1831. "to those foreigners who, by reason of the troubled state of Europe, have come within our borders, and whose presence, unemployed and harassed by necessity, may constitute a public danger." Soon after 1831 membership in the legion was thrown open to Frenchmen. From the beginning of its history of nearly 100 years the legion has normally been a good 40 to 50 percent German in making up. Yet never according to the French army chiefs, has that high percentage made the slightest difference in the legion's loyalty to either the white flag of Louis Philippe or the tricolor under which France's armies have marched during the reign of Napoleon III and the present republican regime. The glowing citations which the polyglot warriors amassed during the last war are ample proof that their famous song, "Having no fatherland, France is our mother," is no mere poetical imagery.

The legion's strength is now close to 20,000 men. In times of peace its effectives are normally not employed in France proper, but in the colonies. The regulations provide that the legionnaire, who enlists for a five year first term of service, shall be rotated from Africa to the Far East and back again. For the legion the French high command tries to live up to the old recruiting promise of "Join the army and see the world."

The discipline, as far as regulations go, is exactly the same as in the regular French forces. In practice the presence of a large number of German non-commissioned officers tends to make it more strict. However, for sign officers who can show good service records may be admitted as legion second lieutenants after a six months training period. Opportunity for attendance at the French officers' training schools is held out to all ranks of the legion.

Among the officers now serving with the legion three are known to be legionnaires who show the necessary aptitude.

bonafide Americans who joined the force during the late war. One certified American is serving as a first sergeant. But of the remainder of the reputed 40, little is known in official quarters. And official quarters, keeping to the idea of the "refuge," are not anxious to be further informed.

HAIRLESS MICE

London—A number of hairless mice were exhibited before the Zoological Society recently. They were caught in North Longford. The mice are of a pink fleshy color and except for whiskers are utterly devoid of hair.

Tapirs and rhinoceroses once inhabited the Townsend Valley in Montana, according to scientists who claim to have found bones of the animals in sediments of volcanic ash.

BALTIC CITY MARKS ITS SEVENTH CENTURY

Visby, Sweden—Visby, described as a city of ruins and roses, is observing this month the seven-hundredth anniversary of its founding. Members of the Swedish royal family and church dignitaries will attend. Located on the island of Gotland in the center of the Baltic sea, Visby in the thirteenth century attained an important commercial position and was a city of great wealth. The city wall was 10,000 feet long, with 37 towers.

Recent excavations have brought light many interesting records of life in the olden days. Scientists aver that the island of Gotland was inhabited 2,500 years before Christ.

Direct Diet Of Baby To Keep It Well

PREPARED BY UNITED STATES CHILDREN'S BUREAU

During the summer months in most of the larger cities there is an enormous increase in sickness among babies, many of whom fail to survive the period.

The principal factor in keeping baby well during this time is to have him properly fed. Accordingly, the physician who cares for the baby should direct his diet most carefully.

If the mother has no physician, the doctor at the nearest health station will examine the baby and order a diet for him. The health station nurse will assist the mother in following out the doctor's instructions.

There are stations of this kind in virtually every city in the country, sometimes maintained by the city and sometimes by a private society. The mother can find the location of the station nearest her home by inquiring at the city health office.

Digestive upsets are more frequent in hot weather than at any other time. Milk is more easily contaminated when the temperature is high and when flies abound. All cow's milk, therefore, should be thoroughly scalded.

In hot weather every effort should be made to keep baby in a cool place, to keep him lightly clad, to give him frequent sponge baths, and to have him drink an abundance of cool, boiled water.

An infant should not be urged to finish his bottle or to eat in hot weather if he is not hungry. During short periods of excessive heat the amount of milk should be reduced.

NIGHT LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

Dear Leslie: Saw your mother off yesterday. She was looking fine and seems very happy to go. I am sure the trip will do her much good. Mother insists that I shall wait until Saturday before going to Atlantic City. Says if I could wait here for a day or two to see Mrs. Hamilton off, I can certainly wait a day or two longer for my own mother. I am furious with her for I am sure she could be ready to go before. However, I see nothing to do but to give in to her this time. And a wire from her this morning looking like this: "Sent you my mail to Atlantic City. You should see it the moment you arrive." Of course, Mrs. Atterton thinks I will be with you tomorrow morning. I don't know what is in the mail. You had better open it and if you find anything very pressing you can wire it to me. I am particularly unhappy not to be with you. Will stay at hotel until tomorrow noon, hoping to hear from you either by wire or telephone.

Letter From Mamie Keeler to John Prescott—Opened by Leslie Prescott

So it has come, Jack—that going out of my life you were always telling about. You are going back to that beautiful wife of yours and congeniality, and I am to sail away in that different direction which you have commanded me.

Jack, dear, I can not understand why the good God should make men like you—men so cruel and so tender, men so pitying and so ruthless, men so generous and so selfish.

Of course, I know all you have said in the enclosed letter is true. You see I am sending it back to you so that you may know that I never intended to use it against you in any way. I want you to understand that as far as I am concerned I intend to play the game fairly to the end.

The whole plan was a splendid one, but what we did not take into consideration was that you did not realize that I might fall in love with you—for that matter, neither did I. I do not see, however, why we should not have thought of this contingency. We were not children, you know. We ought to have known that a woman under the circumstances could resist you or any other man who had been as kind to her as you have been to me. For this I am grateful.

Household Hints

CELERY AS GARNISH
Use bits of celery to garnish creamed turkey or turkey salad. Use the outside stalks for celery soup or creamed celery.

PUT SAND IN SOIL
If you want geraniums to bloom all winter put them in pots containing ordinary soil mixed with some sand so that the soil will drain freely and yet be light enough to encourage a good root growth.

MORE INVITING
If you stir flies or dates cut into small pieces into much before serving it, you have a much more delicious breakfast dish. The morsel may be molded with the fruit in it.

WASH THEM FIRST
Wash eggs with a damp cloth when they come from the grocery. Never put them into the ice box without first cleaning them.

NOW IT'S OUR STRAIGHT HAired SISTER THAT IS ENVIED

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

This year we are glorifying the straight-haired girl.

We are glorifying her with oils and unguents so that her sleek locks whether long or short shine and glisten in the sun and give her a distinction that her curly-haired sister can envy, but not imitate.

This is the first time in my recollection that straight hair has had any value to its possessor, or to anyone but the individual who collected the revenues for waving and curling it.

Of course, it was really the shingle bob that brought it about, and gave the straight-haired woman her lining. After you have reduced a crop of hair to just the few inches in the immediate vicinity of the scalp, it doesn't make much difference whether those stubby bits wave or not.

But not only the bobbed-haired girls are wearing their hair sleek and straight, but the ones who have resisted the shears are also resisting the impulse to wave.

The most popular hair dressing for the long-haired girl is to part it in the middle, pull the ends straight back from the face, and do it in a coil at the nape of the neck. The hair is brushed and treated with brilliantine until it is glossy and Spanish looking and gives the idea of one glossy, polished surface, rather than individual hairs. This goes for blonde or brunette alike.

Some women prefer to brush it back without parting—particularly those who possess the enviable widow's peak.

For the bob, the more nearly it resembles a boy's haircut, the better. If you have been ashamed of possessing ears, you might as well get over that inhibition, for the smart bob shows the ears.

There is only one type of curled hair dress that is really smart now. That is the pineapple bob, which requires the hair to be cut very short and the ends very tightly curled so that they stand up all over the head. This is a style that has always been more popular in Paris than ever here, and is too extreme for the average woman.

Pola Negri has fallen for the straight Dutch hair cut. True, she has lost much of her old vamping quality, but she has gained a snap she never had before. Gloria Swanson wears a close clip, with her ears showing every fraction of their inches.

Norma Shearer has sheared her hair so close that a phrenologist could read it across a room. And Alice Joyce, Julia Hoyt, Dagmar Gogorsky, Rita Naldi and all the rest have plastered their hair as close to the cranium as it will stick. This concession to the straight-haired sorority is, I feel sure, only a temporary dispensation of the powers that make us what we are and tell us when to clip and when to curl. But at the same time, it is a favor not to be taken lightly. We ought to make the most of it.

Health Hints

HELP FOR DIABETES PATIENTS

Of particular interest to sufferers from diabetes is the announcement from Paracruv that a plant has been discovered from which a substance 200 times sweeter than sugar is obtained.

A pinch of this substance is all that is needed to sweeten almost any kind of dish. Unlike sugar, this substance possesses none of the harmful qualities found in sugar.

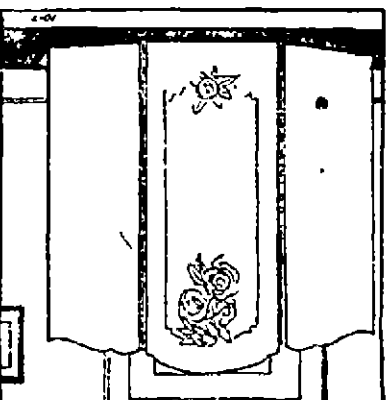

Also this glucosid, as it is called, does no ferment, as sugar does. It might, therefore be particularly useful in hot weather, when sugar solutions ferment.

The plant goes under the name of ka-a-hee. It belongs to the family of Composites, of which the sunflower and daisy are familiar representatives.

The sweetness it contains is not sugar, but a glucosid, somewhat similar to that found in the root of horseradish. The leaves are dried up, and a pinch of them added to sweetened things. Or they may be soaked in water and a sweet liquor prepared.

How To Make Homes Cozy

SCREEN HIDES KITCHEN

Hortenses do not like to show the kitchen to their guests, while preparing for the coming of the guests. Yet the swinging door alone can't shut off the view. A screen is used across the doorway, forming a sort of entry-way from the kitchen to the dining room. At the same time it is a beautiful attraction.

Adventures Of The Twins

POUCHER PELICAN IN TROUBLE

"My! My! My!" somebody's in a hurry," cried Doctor Bill as someone went tap, tap on the front door of his hospital.

Nancy opened it as quickly as she could and walked Poucher Pelican none other, his fat tummy wobbling as he walked, and his market basket tucked under his chin.

"Why how do you do, Poucher?" the little bird doctor said hospitably. "I haven't seen you for a blue moon. How are you? You're looking fine."

Poucher never answered a word. He just stood there like the Statue of Liberty and never made a sound.

"Ah! Lost your voice, have you?" cried Doctor Bill. "You must have caught cold and it's settled on your lungs. Is that it?"

Poucher shook his head sadly. "No?" Well that's funny! The last time I saw you you were teaching your children how to swim out into the water and catch fish until their bill pouches were full. Then they would come back onto the shore and eat them. The fish, I mean, not the bill pouches."

"Poucher" Pelican nodded. He seemed to remember it, too! It was one time when a shark had chased him—and he never tired telling his friends about it. He always added that it was the only time he had seen a fish too big to eat. For Poucher Pelican's throat stretches like rubber. Indeed, if it didn't sound simply terrible, one might say that he had a regular rubber neck.

But now he didn't even smile at his own joke. He just stood there like a gas-pump and never said a word or moved.

Doctor Bill looked puzzled. "Not deaf, are you, Poucher?" he asked.

The pelican shook his head "no." "Or blind?" Again "no." "Just dumb?"

The pelican nodded. "Well, that's too bad. I'll have to find out what causes it. Open your mouth, please."

And what do you think! Just as the pelican opened his mouth, the bird doctor saw the end of a fish's tail disappear from view.

Poucher gave a gulp and drew a long breath. "Oh!" he said. "Oh! That feels fine. I nearly choked to death, so I did. I guess you punctured him."

"What?" cried Doctor Bill and the Twins all together. "Who?"

"Why you see," said Poucher. "It was a balloon fish. If I'm quick I can catch them and swallow them before they blow themselves up. But this one was too quick. He was just half way down my throat then he filled himself up with wind—and there he stuck, and I couldn't get him either up or down. I thought I was going to choke to death."

"Then you won't need any pills," said Doctor Bill kindly.

COMMON HOUSEHOLD MEDICINES

Otherwise known as "simples" have for centuries been derived from medicinal roots and herbs. They are still used and recognized by many of our best physicians as unequalled for certain ailments. In many countries roots and herbs are cultivated purely for commercial purposes. It is said that the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., is the greatest user of crude herbs in this country. The success of their Vegetable Compound for ailments of women is now world-wide, and it will certainly pay any woman who suffers from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try it.

HAND PAINTED COSTUMES HAVE FIRM FOOTHOLD

Get out the box of paints and put your brushes in order, for hand-painting, that has tried so long to get a foothold in fashions, has won out. Among the displays of southern wear hand-painting and stenciling are prominent decorations.

A black satin beach costume has a wonderful hand-painted dragon design. A russet crepe dress is adorned with an exquisite spray of chrysanthemums down the front, and another dress in tan crepe has a deep fuchsia painted in chrysanthemums.

A hand-painted lace dress from Paris gives a wonderful iridescent effect, and so on. This form of decoration gives ample opportunity for the display of individualism, which is an outstanding characteristic of American women when it comes to fashions.

COATS HAVE JABOTS

Some of the newest coats feature the jabot for in which falls in graceful ripples to the waistline. It is a more flattering neckline than we have had in some time.

"No," grinned Poucher. "If anybody needs pills, it's the fish. I feel kind of sorry for him."

Rheumatic Pains Go Quickly With Old Time Remedy

First Day's Treatment in Many Cases Relieves All Pain

New remedies spring up every day, but most of them do not last long and it is the old-time remedies that have stood the test of long trial which are the best in the end.

For rheumatic pains there is nothing that makes them disappear more quickly than the old-time scientific combination called Rheuma. Thousands have given grateful testimony to the almost instant relief which Rheuma has given them from the torturing pains, in many cases after the very first treatment.

Rheuma is known everywhere for its wonderful effects and if you suffer from rheumatism in any form, you owe it to yourself to try it. Rheuma is sold by Schlitz Bros. and other good druggists with a guarantee of absolute satisfaction or your money refunded.

Only an old-time remedy that has been successful over a period of years could make such a liberal guarantee. Don't suffer any longer, get a bottle of Rheuma today.

Polite And Kind Girl Has Friends

BY CYNTHIA GREY

One of the things we learn when we grow up is how much less we actually count in the scheme of things than we supposed.

As our horizon increases, our own importance in the landscape decreases.

A young girl is very much concerned with the impression she is making. She very naturally wants people to like her, and she wants to be conscious that they find her charming. If they don't show their approval, often she thinks they don't like her.

I know one girl who could be attractive but is not because of a queer complex she has that people don't like her and don't understand her.

Now the truth is, no one dislikes her. Most of the people she would say dislike her would say they didn't know her. She is just a bit colorless. She hasn't naturally a vivid personality, and is not mature enough to have developed one out of the fabric of her experiences.

She just doesn't register very hard. People meet her, but there's nothing about her that interests and holds them, and they forget her as soon as the introduction is over.

They don't dislike her—they just don't know she's around and they believe most of us would rather believe that people dislike us than to feel we make no impression whatever. To remain unnoticed is much less flattering to the vanity than to have created a definite reaction, one way or another.

This girl believes that people dislike her is retreating more and more within herself. She makes less effort to be agreeable as she grows older.

If she realized the situation, she would know that the solution of the difficulty lay in exerting every effort, to "put herself over" as we say.

The quickest way to make people notice you is to be kind to them, and to do something for them. No matter how feted and celebrated a person is, he still appreciates the little kindnesses that unexpectedly come his way. And he remembers the person who bestows them.

The girl who always takes the time to be courteous, who does the little kindnesses that cost nothing in money but much in consideration, and who actually thinks of the comfort of others before herself, may not be a beauty, may not be brilliant, may not be a world beater in any sense, but she will have friends and she will have all she wants. And eventually she will become known.

Laughing In His Sleeve

"I was told nothing but an operation would help my stomach trouble, and was getting ready for the operation when a friend advised me to try May's Wonderful Remedy. The first dose helped me. I am now as well as ever in my life, and am laughing up my sleeve at the doctors." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. adv.

RICH GOLD FIND STARTS BOOM IN NEVADA DESERT

Days of Western Frontier Recalled Vividly by Newly Built Camp

By Associated Press
Gilbert, Nev.—Days of the old frontier are recalled vividly by this new mining camp, a gold boom town that has sprung up at a place where only rocks and sand and distant mountains were visible a few weeks ago.

Scenes here are reminiscent to old times of such camps as Goldfield, Manhattan and Rawhide 20 odd years ago.

Gilbert now has a Main street lined with wooden structures of all sizes and sorts. There is even a weekly paper, the Gilbert Record. The hillside is dotted with 100 or more tents. Almost hourly big trucks arrive from Tonopah and Mina, the nearest railroad points, loaded with lumber, coal, machinery and supplies. New houses are going up, and almost every line of business incident to a mining camp is represented. There are stores, restaurants, an assay office, law offices, a garage and service station, a dance hall.

The real story of Gilbert starts in 1895 when Charles Lampson, a desert prospector, picked up a piece of rich gold quartz near an Indian camp in the Monte Cristo range. Lampson spent many months searching the hills for the outcropping from which the gold had come. Finally he gave up and wandered away to other fields.

J. B. Gilbert took up the search. He met with no more success than Lampson. His sons, however, persisted in the hunt. The older Gilbert died many years ago. Nearly 23 years later his three sons, Fred, Herman and Logan, located "the Last Hope." They had called it that because they had planned to make their last effort to wring gold from those hills.

The Gilbert boys began to get values from the surface. They took out a shipment, and the experiment started. A few days later Dick Raycraft, a veteran prospector, working for the Gilberts, discovered the "jewelry shop" in a badger hole on top of a hill now known as the Black Mammoth. Some of the rocks assayed $1 or more a pound. This started a stampede.

The exposed rock on the surface of the Gilbert holdings is so rich that an armed guard patrols the place night and day. Thousands have visited the strike. It is estimated that not less than $5,000 has been given away in specimens.

Hundreds of prospectors are in the surrounding hills. Many new strikes have been reported. Every day the interest grows more intense. Old time, gold-seekers are coming back from Mexico, from Canada and elsewhere.

While the Gilberts' Last Hope first drew attention to the new gold field, it is the Black Mammoth and the Homestake that bid fair to make the camp world famous. The Homestake is just beyond Black Mammoth, and recently it gave up a ledge 1,000 feet long which pans gold the entire distance. There are eight different locations where gold specimens may be taken from the surface at random. Much development work is in progress.

BEEES PREVENT WREN FROM RAISING FAMILY

By Associated Press
Aberdeen, Wash.—How the maternal instinct of a tiny wren twice in as many years was frustrated by a colony of wild bees has been related by Samuel Benn, a bird lover of this city.

For two years, Mr. Benn said, he watched a wren carrying material to build her nest in a bird house he had erected, and although she occupied it for a time each season and laid her eggs, no baby wrens ever put in their appearance.

Recently when he was changing the location of the bird house Mr. Benn discovered that both years wild bees had taken possession of the nest and had formed their honeycomb over the mother wren's eggs. The second nest had been built over the honeycomb and the wreckage of the former season's hopes.

MOTORCYCLES FIND FAVOR IN BRITAIN

London—Great Britain has 1,242,600 motor vehicles, according to the latest figures announced by the ministry of transport, which states that during 1924 the gross receipts from motor taxation amounted to $75,000,000. This number includes 474,000 private cars, 441,000 motorcycles, 210,000 commercial motors and $4,000 taxicabs and omnibuses.

POISON GIVES LIQUOR LOVELY COLORS, CLAIM

Wood Alcohol Shows Up Violently Original Scotch "Green"

New York — Blame the domestic bootlegger, not the foreign smuggler.

It is the boy who pours wood alcohol into Scotch which previously was merely raw and indigestible.

This you have upon the word of Dr. W. G. Knight, chemist in charge of the federal customs laboratory here. Dr. Knight and his staff analyze probably a wider variety of substances than any chemists in the country—in fact every sort of material imported from the ends of the earth and passing under the eyes of Appraiser Frederick J. H. Kracke. And they analyze all liquor seized by customs officials.

"Actually all liquor taken before it touches land is green and fresh from the distillery, but scarcely any of it has been diluted or poisoned," says Dr. Knight. "As soon as our bootleggers get it, they cut it to make it go farther."

A beautiful violet color is the laboratory danger signal of wood alcohol. Dr. Knight pours out a swallow of liquor, accurately measured, which looks, smells and is labeled like good Scotch. To this he adds water and distills it. After determining the percentage of alcohol present, he tests for wood alcohol.

First he adds to a portion of the distillate a small amount of sulphuric acid, and after a few minutes decolors and some potassium permanganate the solution with oxalic acid.

"If there is any wood alcohol present, this treatment will turn it into formaldehyde," he explains.

Into another tube he pours acid magenta, which is the violet-colored coal tar product, fuchsine. To this he adds sodium sulphate and it becomes colorless.

"The magenta is still there; you just can't see it," he says. "Formaldehyde will bring it back. And if we started with wood alcohol in the other tube, we have formaldehyde here."

"After adding an additional amount of sulphuric acid to the solution in the first tube, he empties one tube into the other. The violet returns. "Notice how deep the color is. That means lots of wood alcohol. Nice drink for suicide."

There are other tests, including that by a telescope-like instrument called an immersion refractometer, in which a scale. The best test to find the age of whisky is said to be the simple expedient of tasting it. But taste is no way to hunt for wood alcohol.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

While the clerk at the drugstore was filling Dr. John's prescriptions, Glory went into the telephone booth and called Stan Wayburn at his hotel. "Oh, Stan, I'm so terribly sorry about this afternoon. I wouldn't have had things happen the way they did for anything in the world," she told him when she heard his voice.

Stan laughed carelessly. "Don't you bother your cute head about me, Russert, for a single second," he said. "Just forget it. I told your husband where to head in, though, by the way."

"You did!" Glory's surprise was in her voice. She was sure that it had been Dick who had told Stan where to "head in." Moreover, she remembered how meekly Stan had obeyed when Dick had told him to get out of the house.

"I certainly told him nothing else but," Wayburn went on. "You didn't suppose I was going to lie down like a rug and take all his insults, did you? Not on your gay young life. I wasn't at all what's going to see you wherever and whenever I want . . . if you want me to. You do, don't you?"

"Of course, I want to . . . but did you really tell all that to Dick?" Glory asked incredulously.

"No—no, not exactly that way," Stan admitted. "Well, I must ring off, now," Glory said. "Goodbye, Stan."

She was vaguely disappointed in Wayburn. She would have liked him to stand up to Dick that afternoon. She wanted to be proud of him, somehow.

When Glory returned to the house she found Mother Gregory in charge. She had tied a white apron, crackling with starchiness, over her black silk dress, and she was tenderly bathing Dick's face.

"These colds of his come from his stomach. I'm sure of it," she said accusingly to her daughter-in-law. "He's either been upset over something or his diet is all wrong. Do you give him much fried food?"

Glory tried to think whether or not Ranghild fried the meat and potatoes very often. She thought not. "Well, anyway, Dick's to have nothing but egg-nog for his supper," Mother Gregory went on without waiting for Glory's reply. "You go down and heat it up while I make Dick comfortable for the night . . . and make me a cup of tea, while you're at it. I was just sitting down to dinner when you phoned me, and I came right over without a bit."

Glory stood looking helplessly at Mother Gregory's broad satin-covered back. "How do you make an egg-nog?" she asked finally.

Mother Gregory turned and faced her. Her fine black eyes were widened in astonishment.

"Well, I never heard of such a thing! You, a grown woman, not knowing how to heat a little milk and egg together!" she exclaimed. "You sit here and wait for me a minute . . . When I finish with Dick I'll go downstairs with you, and show you how to make an egg-nog."

She smoothed the pillows under Dick's head. Then she pulled the hot water bottle from between the sheets, and gave it to Glory.

"Go and empty half the water out of that thing," she ordered. "Never fill a hot water bottle to the very top. It'll burst if you do. . . . And roll it up in a clean towel before you bring it back."

Silently Glory obeyed. Then the two women went down to Ranghild's spotless white kitchen.

"Now then," Mother Gregory said briskly. "Put on your apron and wash your hands, so'll get to work. She bustled about collecting milk and eggs and nutmeg as she spoke.

Glory had no aprons of her own. She had no use for aprons. But she found one of Ranghild's in a pantry drawer and tied it on.

When the egg-nog was made, Dick's mother poured it into a tall glass and set it on a little tray. "You take it up to Dick while I stir around and get a bite of supper for us, Glory," she said. "And see that he drinks every drop of it."

Slowly and unwillingly Glory went upstairs. Dick's eyes were fixed on the door as she swung it ajar. She set the tray on a chair at the side of Dick's bed.

"Here's the first meal your little old wife ever cooked for you," Glory said with a gawky she was far from feeling. Dick merely looked at her. She slipped an arm behind his shoulders to raise him but he pushed it away.

"Give me the glass," he said shortly. He drained it, and lay down again with his face turned toward the wall. Glory picked up her tray to go. But before she reached the door Dick had called to her.

"Glory, you took your things into the guest-room," he said.

"Yes, I'm going to sleep there tonight," Glory answered. "I think you'll sleep more comfortably if you're in here alone."

But they both knew that was not her reason for going into the guest-room. The thought of Wayburn rose between them like an insurmountable wall.

"Glory, tell me one thing," Dick said surprisingly. "And think before you give me an answer . . . you're not in love with this Wayburn fellow, are you?" His anger was entirely gone.

"That's not the point," Glory said coldly. "The point is that you've shamed and humiliated me before my friends. And I'll never forgive you for it. I don't know how I can ever face any of them again."

Dick sat up in bed. "I wish you never would see any of them again," he said vehemently. "They're not the kind of people I want you to have for friends. I wonder if you know the things people are saying about May and Jim lately?"

"Oh, people! People make me tired the way they gossip about everybody!" Glory said contemptuously. She went out and closed the door loudly.

Mother Gregory had a cold supper laid on the kitchen table. She was drinking tea and reading the evening paper.

"Have you been asked to join the new Home Women's Club?" she asked Glory, without raising her eyes from the paper. "I put your name up for it. I want my son's wife to belong to it."

"Yes, I've been asked, and have sent in my first dues," Glory answered as she took her place at the table. "Thanks for putting me up for it. I guess most of the women in town are going to be members, aren't they? I'd hate to be left out."

Mother Gregory pursed up her lips.

"Oh, there are a few women who aren't getting in," she remarked acidly. "Your friend, Mrs. Seymour for instance! She'll never be asked to join, if she lives to be a hundred!"

Glory was silent. She knew now what Dick meant by the "beastly things" people were saying about May . . . and Jim Carewe!

That night Glory was brushing her hair before the guest-room dresser when she heard a board creak in the hall outside her door.

Was it Dick? She stood there listening. She was sure that she saw the handle of her locked door turn slowly. Then, a few minutes afterward she was sure she heard the stealthy closing of the door of Dick's room. Evidently he had gone back to bed.

LEGION SWAMPS KIWANIS 11-4, IN LARK LOOP GAME

Veterans Grab Tenth Straight Victory To Clinch Hold On Lead

Basing Takes Mound in Fifth

The American Legion team of the City Lark league won its tenth straight game, 11 to 4, Thursday afternoon at Jones park at the expense of the Kiwanis. With the exception of three or four overthrows, the Legionaires played faultless ball in the field, and although Sternard was on the mound as substitute pitcher, the Kiwanis were able to collect but seven hits off his delivery, while the Legion got to Fred Schlitz for 12 and to Basing for two.

GET QUICK START
The Legion grabbed all its tallies in the first four innings, batting out the way around in the fourth, for 6 hits and 5 runs. Six two-baggers were piled during the contest. Smith, McCourt, Bates, Schabo, Urdan and Sternard crashing them out, while a twin killing in the fourth stopped a rally on the part of the Kiwanis, after they had managed to make two hits and a fielder's choice count for three runs. Hartzell grabbed a liner off Engler's stick and heaved it to Schabo who caught McCourt at second.

Schlitz got himself into hot water right at the start. He walked Schabo, the first man up. Sternard got to first on a fielder's choice. Bates singled to short and Bayer also poked a single, scoring Sternard after Schabo had stolen second and third and crossed the rubber on an overthrow by Basing. Fries slammed a whirling infield fly, which Wright caught and heaved to Engler at third, catching Bates between third and home. Engler shot the pill to Basing, and after a short chase Bates was put out. A two-bagger from Smith's bat scored Bayer, and Smith came home when McCourt muffed Hartzell's fast grounder. Schlitz issued free walking papers to Horn, the next man up and Hartzell, stole second and third. Urdan's clutch stop of Schlitz's grounder ended the slaughter, but not until it had cost the Kiwanis 4 runs.

KIWANIS RALLY
The Legion made two hits and two errors count for 2 runs in their third after "holding the Kiwanis scoreless up to that time, but in the fourth the Kiwanis staged a rally that looked in its early stages as though it might tie the score. Basing started off with a single. Wright got to first while Sternard, Fries and Bayer were trying to catch Basing off the sack, and both of them scored on Urdan's timely two-bagger. McCourt's single sent Urdan home. With three runs in, none down and one man on base, Bacon filed out to Fries at first and Engler's short infield fly found a berth in Hartzell's ready hands. McCourt was off the sack when Hartzell caught the pill and the side was retired.

In the fourth the Legionaires pounded Schlitz off the mound, registering six hits, three of them two-baggers. Schabo, Sternard, Bates and Bayer hit in quick succession. Fries got on on a fielder's choice. Smith walked, Hartzell poked a two-bagger and Horn a single. Bates was caught between third and home and Hartzell was thrown out at the plate. Schabo filed out to centerfield on his second time up.

BASING GOES GOOD
In the next inning Basing took the mound and from then on the Legion got only two more hits. In the sixth the Kiwanians turned two hits into a run, but the rest of the game was uneventful.

The lineup: Legion—Schabo 1b, Sternard p, Bates c, Bayer 3b, Smith 1b, Hartzell 2b, Horn ss, Schlitz c, Kiwanis—Schlitz p, cf, Carlson 2b, MacKenzie 1b, Basing c, p, Wright ss, Urdan 1b, McCourt 3b, Bacon cf, c, Engler lf, Frawley rf.

Y. M. C. A. and Chair Co. will clash Friday afternoon in a City Twilight league game at Jones park, with the Triangles strong favorites to win. The Y. M. C. A. club is firmly entrenched in second place immediately behind the Post-Crescents, while the Chair-makers are next to the bottom, just a notch above the Meyer Press.

HELEN OVERWHELMS MOLLA AT SEABRIGHT

Seabright, N. J.—Helen Wills overwhelmed Mrs. Molla Mallory Thursday in the semifinals of the women's singles in the Seabright invitation tennis tournament. The California girl and national champion took only 26 minutes to beat her rival by scores of 6-1 and 6-0.

SNODGRASS GIVES TILDEN SURPRISE

Chicago — It is doubtful if Champion Bill Tilden will ever come closer to defeat without accident taking a beating than he did in his recent match with Harold Snodgrass in the Illinois State tournament at Skokie the other day.

Just two points stood between the tennis king and defeat. With the set count standing at one apiece, Snodgrass had a lead of 5-4 and 30-0 on the final and it looked all over but the shouting. Tilden, however, came back strong, overhauled his opponent's advantage to tie the match and then went out and grabbed the next two games to insure victory. It was a narrow escape, though, for the great Philadelphia.

TEAMS IN THIRD PLACE PERK UP IN HARD SPURTS

Red Sox Score Clean Sweep
at Philadelphia With Six Straight Wins

New York—Third place teams are perking up in the major leagues. Cincinnati in the National and Chicago in the American, as the result of spurts, have a good chance to break up two team slumps for the flags. Philadelphia series for the sixth straight victory, 6 to 2, the Red Sox bore down on the Pirates and Giants in the senior league while making their own grip in third place more secure against the challenge of Brooklyn.

Having fenced off Detroit and St. Louis after a close fight for third place, the White Sox Friday are after another victory over the champion Senators. Washington, which has been struggling with Philadelphia for the lead, is 8½ games ahead of Chicago, which has just won three victories in four starts.

The Sox Thursday knocked Clevelander from the box and smashed his 13-game winning streak with a cluster of 18 safeties to win 11 to 1.

Meanwhile the Athletics hammered Whitehill out of the game and beat the Tigers, 9 to 0.

The Yankees, after 14 unsuccessful attempts, finally established a three-game winning streak by trouncing the Browns, 9 to 2.

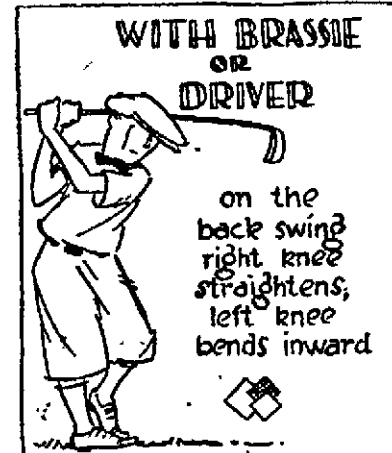

Cleveland kept pace with the Yankees by making it three straight over the Red Sox, 7 to 2.

The Giants cut Pittsburgh's lead to a game and a half as Hank Gowdy, veteran catcher, rose with a mighty stick to dispute rumors that he would have been asked to leave by the Giants. Hank's homerun and sacrifice fly scored three of the Giants' runs in a close game with the Cubs, 4 to 2.

Pittsburgh made the New York climb possible by tossing off a game to the tallent Braves, 5 to 1. St. Louis tumbled Brooklyn in a pitching duel between Reinhardt and Hubbell, 5 to 2.

GOLF

As Champions Play It

In using the brassie or driver, should the knees move at all?

BY WILLIAM MEHLHORN
Western Open Champion, 1924

Yes, the knees play a very important part in using the brassie or driver. In beginning the stroke, the right knee straightens to a certain extent on the back swing, but does not stiffen. The left bends inward toward the right, letting the left heel come off the ground about an inch. In the follow through the knee action is still greater with the right heel coming well off the ground and turning outward.

Vernon-Joe (Toots) Mondt, Colorado cowboy wrestler, defeated Allen Eustace of Kansas two falls in three.

FAVORITES COME THROUGH SECOND ROUND OF JOUSTS

Virginia Gittens Is Defeated
by Dorothy Page, Youthful Madison Girl

Kenosha—All the favorites came through in the second round of the women's Wisconsin golf championship on the Country club course here on Thursday. They won by decisive scores.

Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, the defending champion, eliminated Mrs. Albert Gallun of Blue Mound by a one-sided 8 up and 7 score. The champion was out in 39, one under par, and continued to play par on the remaining two holes. In her semi-final match she will play Miss Dorothy Page, a young Madison girl, who turned in a 5 and 4 victory over Miss Virginia Gittens, Green Bay.

Miss Gittens had considerable trouble with her tee shots, although the rest of her game balanced with that of Miss Page. The Maple Bluff star had a 40 on the first nine and had the match well in hand shortly after the start. She was 4 up at the turn. Frances Hadfield, Blue Mound, medalist in the tournament, advanced by notwithstanding three strokes. She defeated Mrs. G. W. Stevens of Oshkosh, 7 up and 5 to play.

Miss Hadfield had a 39 going out notwithstanding three strokes. She will play Mrs. Charles C. Russell of the Milwaukee Country club in the semi-finals. Mrs. Russell, despite the fact that her driving was not as good as usual, managed to win from Miss Margaret Barnum of the Tripoli club Milwaukee, 4 up and 3 to play.

She was 2 up at the turn. A peculiar incident in connection with this match was the sinking of three approaches by Miss Barnum.

The afternoon was given over to an approaching and putting contest in which Dorothy Page won with eight strokes from three distances.

KAUKAUNA WILL INVADE SAWDUST CITY SUNDAY

Kaukauna will invade Oshkosh Sunday for a baseball battle with the Kitz and Piff team there. This arrangement was made after the Mayville club cancelled its contest, being about to break up for the season. Many old State leaguers are on the Kaukauna rolls. Marry and Ted Lamars are on the infield force, and Roney, Lozier and Smith will be the Kaukauna battery.

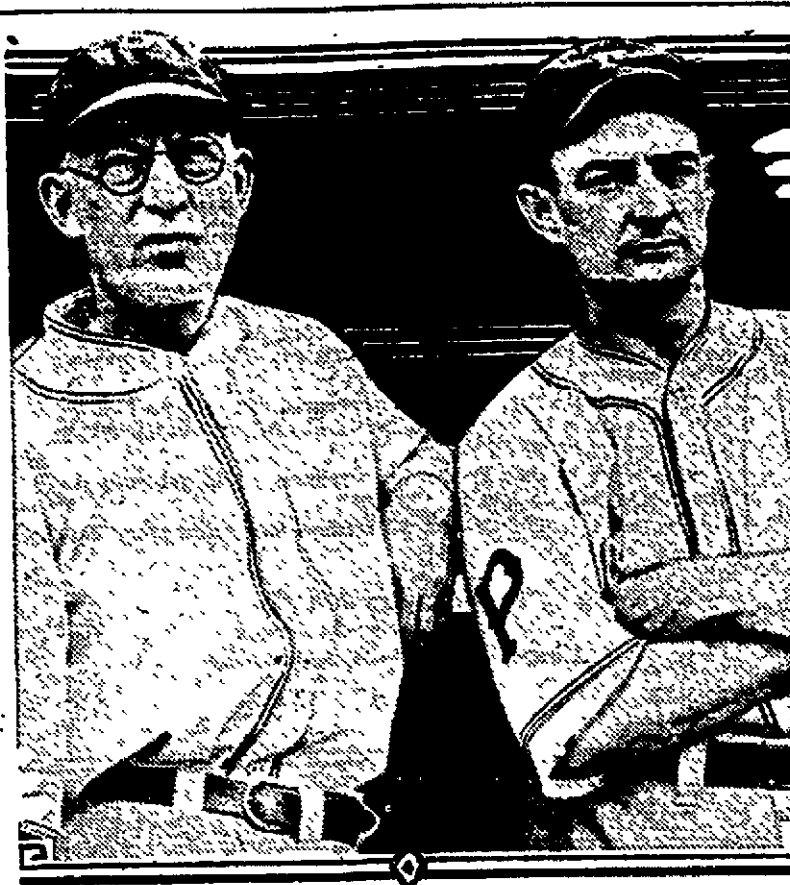

Oshkosh will use Joe Lotz on the mound. Levellyn and Charley Roth will be held in reserve. Martin Runke will do the catching.

DOGGERS GET SET TO PLAY FREEDOM OUTFIT

Appleton Dodgers are getting set for their invasion of Freedom Sunday afternoon, in expectation of a hard fight. Freedom defeated Greenville last Sunday, 8 to 4, in a return game, gathering 11 hits off Kranzsch, including 4 doubles. Greenville hit five of Refke's offerings and each of the two twirlers retired seven men by the strikeout route.

Refke and Brockhaus will be the Freedom battery, and Kranzsch and Bushey will work for the Dodgers.

LEADING PITTSBURG FORCES

Meet Fred Clarke, former manager and star outfielder for the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Bill McKechnie, present pilot. Clarke led the Buccaneers to a title and world flag in 1909. He recently returned to the club to aid in the 1925 drive of the Dreyfus forces.

International Tennis Meet Holds Spotlight

International competition always adds a bit of unusual lustre to any sportive event.

It matters not whether it be golf, tennis, track and field, horse racing, boxing or even billiards. The color is there, the atmosphere, the flavor.

The British open tournament, Davis cup matches, Olympic games are all outstanding classics in their respective fields. They always hold more than ordinary interest, attract attention.

You'll no doubt recall the Dempsey-Carpenter fight. They called it the "battle of the century." And mainly because it was an international affair with the champions of two continents opposed, battling for world honors.

Also there were the Papyrus, Epinaud and turf invasions. English and French horses meeting leading mounts of this country.

Within the next few weeks another international clash will take place. It will be the annual battle between American and English women tennis players for the Wightman cup. It will be staged at the historic Forest Hills stadium on Long Island. It's a big event in the fair sex field.

This year the American pastimes will be out for revenge. For, after winning all of the seven matches two years ago, the United States combination was given a sound lacing at Wimbledon last season, copping but one bout.

It will also find Helen Wills, national champion, endeavoring to redeem herself for the defeats she suffered across the pond in 1924. On that occasion the little Californian met reverses at the hands of the two English stars, Mrs. Phyllis Covell and Miss Kitty McKane.

Obviously, it was quite a setback for the American titleholder. Her only consolation came in the doubles, where she and Mrs. George Wightman beat Miss McKane and Miss Evelyn Collyer. It was the invaders only victory.

The Johnny Bull contingent will send a finely balanced outlay to our shores this year. It should be just as formidable, if not more so, than the victorious team of a season ago.

Its chances for another triumph should be greatly enhanced, in fact, by the addition of Miss Betty Ryan.

EXPECT STATE NOTABLES FOR OUTDOOR CARD

State and City Officials and Society Women Will See Milwaukee Fights

Milwaukee—When Pinky Mitchell and Willie Harmon, square off in the ring of Walter Lange's immense new arena here on the night of Aug. 14 they will appear before one of the most representative Wisconsin crowds that has ever witnessed a sporting event in the Badger state. City and state officials, prominent businessmen, and well known sportsmen from almost every city in the state will be at the ringside. Many Milwaukee society women, who have never attended any of the big indoor bouts here will give box parties. Adjt. General Ralph Immel, Madison, has ordered a box and will head a big party of Madison fans.

Mr. Lange has also invited Gov. Blaine to be his guest, and he will be on hand if official business does not keep him at Madison. Mayor John Chose, whose activities in the recent legislature made outdoor boxing possible, has also reserved a box. In this connection there is an interesting story. Because of his efforts to legalize open air boxing the club officials invited the mayor to be their guest here on the night of the big bout. Chase turned down the invitation, but at the same time ordered 10 tickets. "And I want to pay for them" he wrote.

Kenosha, Racine, Manitowoc, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, La Crosse and Madison sportsmen have also ordered a big block of tickets. Mike Collins of Minneapolis will head a delegation of Twin City sportsmen while special trains will be run from Chicago. Fifty New York friends of Harmon are also coming for the scrap. Incidentally it is said they are coming loaded down with coin with which to back the hard hitting easterner against the junior welterweight champion.

Tickets can be reserved by sending certified checks or money orders to Frank Fawcett, 14 Wells St., Milwaukee, Wis.

COMBINED LOCKS SEEKS BALL GAME ON SATURDAY

Combined Locks Industrial baseball team is looking for a game Saturday afternoon and is willing to play any team in this neighborhood, according to "Red" Smith. The club is composed of a number of former Wisconsin State leaguers, including Red Smith, Len Smith, the Lamers brothers and Cavil, together with several other fast men. Arrangements for a game, Saturday may be made with "Red" Smith at the Combined Locks Paper Co., Combined Locks.

JACK WILLING IF PURSE IS RIGHT

Dempsey Will Wire Willingness to Meet Wills After July 4, 1926

By Associated Press
Los Angeles, Calif.—Jack Dempsey still is willing to meet Harry Greb at Michigan City next September, providing Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons will make it interesting enough for him financially.

He expressed his willingness to go ahead with the bout "if Fitzsimmons can sign Greb and we can reach an agreement when he comes out here to sign me."

Dempsey said he was planning to wire the New York Boxing commission that he could not possibly be in New York within the two weeks limit allowed him for signing for the bout with Harry Wills, but would be willing to meet the Negro fighter next July 4 or at any date thereafter.

Appleton Will Seek To Make It 2 To 1 Sunday With Oshkosh Due Here

Honors Are Even Thus Far.
Batzmen Having Won, 16
to 15, and Sawdust Crew,
4 to 3

STANDINGS	W	L	Pct.
Plymouth	8	2	.800
Fond du Lac	7	3	.700
Chilton	4	4	.500
Oshkosh	5	6	.453
APPLETON	4	7	.361
Campbellsport	2	8	.200

NEXT SUNDAY'S GAMES
OSHKOSH AT APPLETON.
Campbellsport at Fond du Lac.
Chilton at Plymouth.

Appleton will try to make it 2 to 1 Sunday when Oshkosh invades Grandt park here for their third meeting this year, and to increase his chances of putting this feat across, Manager C. O. Batz has signed two new men for his outfield. Honors are even between the two clubs thus far. Appleton won the first game, 16 to 15, and Oshkosh took the second, 4 to 3. In the second game, Crowe pitched a 3-hit game, but a wild peg in the ninth lost it for him. He will pitch against Bruce Noel Sunday.

In preparation for a hard tussle, the Batzmen have arranged a game Saturday with the Central Paper Co. team of Neenah at Grandt park. This is in the nature of a practice tilt, but the Papermakers are hoped to give their rivals a hard tussle. They are one of the strongest industrial teams in the Twin cities.

IN FIFTH PLACE

Appleton has dropped to fifth place in the league after losing four games in a row. Oshkosh is immediately above the Batz club in the standings and it is the aim of the Appleton club to displace the Sawdust city outfit.

A victory Sunday for Appleton would result in a tie with Oshkosh for fourth place, while Plymouth in first. Fond du Lac in second and Chilton in third are due to fight for their berths. The fact that a victory over the Batzmen would put Oshkosh in third place if Plymouth beats Chilton, gives the Sawdust city club a great incentive to play good ball, and the hope is that the league leaders will hand Chilton a good drubbing.

Fond du Lac, slated to entertain the tallent Campbellsport club at home, expects an easy victory, although the visitors have been losing most of their games by a single run.

Crowe will have his hands full pitching against the veteran Noel Working for Merrill two weeks ago. Noel struck out more than a score of batmen, his speedball puzzling the best of them. Somerfield will play opposite Noel, while Last will do his stuff behind the log while Crowe is working.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Clintonville and Iola put in a hard afternoon Sunday, playing fourteen innings of fast baseball before they could arrive at a decision. The score was tied, 3 to 3, in the ninth, but it took Clintonville five more innings to bring in the necessary run.

Plymouth and Fond du Lac seem to have things all their own way in the Eastern Wisconsin pennant chase. Appleton has ceased to threaten, having lost four games in a row. Oshkosh is not much better, and Chilton, in third place, is losing some of its former prestige, while Campbellsport at the tailend seems to be out of the running altogether.

The new Appleton Athletic association still is waiting for its franchise, but that lack is not keeping the club from going ahead with its arrangements. Word has been received from the commission, it is said, that the franchise will be granted, and the Appleton club is establishing connections with promoters and fans in the big cities so that there will be plenty of good fighters available whenever they are wanted.

KIMBERLY HOLY NAME TO MEET WRIGHTSTOWN

Kimberly Jr. Holy Name boys will give their dad a big treat Sunday when they line up against the lads from Wrightstown.

Kimberly boys have won all their games except one, and challenge any boy team from the ages of 12 to 16, in the Fox River valley. They will play any day—weekday or Sunday at any place. Write to Manager Robert Le Moy for dates.

The battery for Sunday will be: Kimberly—LeMoy and Vander Zanden; Wrightstown—Hardy and Schelphorn.

After the Juniors have finished their contest with Wrightstown the Seniors will put on a game with a club which will be picked later.

New York—Dave Shade of California will engage in one and possibly two fights prior to his meeting with Mickey Walker for the welterweight crown.

America Greet New Nash Models with Record-Breaking Crowds

By the hundreds of thousands American men and women have thronged Nash showrooms from one end of the country to the other since Announcement Day, Thursday, July 23.

And the nation-wide enthusiasm these new Special Six and Advanced Six models have already created has launched Nash on a new year bound to eclipse by far the phenomenal success of the past twelve months.

Attendance has been so heavy that hundreds have been prevented from adequate inspection of the new models so we are extending the Special Introductory Exhibition for a period of two weeks more.

MAN WITH JUG
PAYS $100 FINE

Sentence Is Meted Out to William Wagner of Menasha at Oshkosh

William Wagner of Menasha, was fined $100 and costs in municipal court at Oshkosh Friday for transportation of intoxicating liquor following his arrest and arraignment on that charge at Menasha. There was no evidence of his having manufactured or sold any liquor, which accounts for the light sentence.

Wagner attempted to destroy the evidence by throwing the jug of liquor or he carried into the Fox river. He was caught by Officer Alex Slonski of Menasha, making his midnight rounds. When Wagner saw the officer, he started on a run but he was overtaken. The jug also was fished out of the water.

JULY WHEAT JUMPS TO
$1.66 IN CHICAGO PIT

By Associated Press
Chicago—Speculators paid dearly Friday for the privilege of selling wheat without having first got actual ownership. Before they could settle July accounts with the market, they had to wait until the close of business on Thursday when the closing price and touched $1.66 a bushel.

Highest prices for the day for July wheat were reached in the very last minute of trading, but for nearly an hour previous the market had hovered at within one cent of the apex. Right at the opening there had been a jump of 3 cents a bushel to $1.60 and after a little hesitation the July price jumped to $1.62, near which figure it remained until after midday.

The flurry began in earnest during the final hour, and reached the climax just as the closing gongs drove the brokers from the pit.

Racine—Racine-co Republicans will meet in mass conference in the near future for the purpose of electing 27 delegates to the state convention to be held at Oshkosh immediately after the calling of the special election for United States Senator. The date and place of meeting will be announced by the officers of the club which was organized at Union Grove Thursday night.

Gilbert Brach of this city was elected president of the county organization.

BERLIN POLICE PUT IN QUIET NIGHT THURSDAY

By Associated Press
Berlin—Greater Berlin established a record for good behavior Thursday night, not a single arrest, accident, suicide or instance of public disturbance being reported in any of the 300 metropolitan police precincts. Veteran police sergeants, accustomed to seeing the stations crowded with a variety of offenders pronounced Thursday night the quietest in 21 years.

UNEMPLOYMENT BILL PASSED BY COMMONS

By Associated Press

FRENCH BANK STRIKE
GOING IN FULL BLAST

By Associated Press
Paris—The strike of bank employees, which resulted in street fighting between police and the strikers Thursday, shows no signs of weakening.

Friday morning 80 per cent of the staff of 5,000 at the head office of the Credit Lyonnais remained away from work, at the Banque Nationale de Credit 18 per cent of the staff did not report, while the Comptoir National d'Escompte, the latest institution affected by the movement, stated that 20 per cent of its staff of 3,000 was absent.

SWOLLEN RIO GRANDE
THREATENS EL PASO

El Paso, Tex.—Swollen by heavy rains, the Rio Grande Friday threatened El Paso and valley farms with damage from overflow. Advances from points along the river north of here indicate Elephant Butte dam is sweeping southward.

The crest of the flood, advisers say, passed the El Paso, a diversion dam 35 miles south of El Paso. But the crest of the flood on the Mexican side of the river below Juarez gave way yesterday. American officials were advised Friday. Several hundred acres of farm lands were flooded.

CHOREBOY CONFESSES
MURDER OF SISTERS

Nashua, N. H.—Louis LeLombard of Merrimack confessed Friday according to police, that he and his brother-in-law, Charles Lefebvre, murdered Helen and Georgiana Gillis, aged sisters, whose bodies were found last Thursday in their home at Hudson. Lefebvre who is 15 years old, was employed as chore boy of the sisters.

RACINE GIRL DROWNS
BATHING IN MICHIGAN

By Associated Press
Racine—Grace Heisler, 12, was drowned in Lake Michigan late Thursday afternoon while bathing with two girl companions. One of them, Mary Sinkavich, 13, clung to the unfortunate girl's hand and battled against the waves and strong undertow until she also was in danger of losing her life. Coast guards recovered the body about a block from the point where the drowning occurred.

SHIPPING BOARD GIVEN
POWER FOR FORD SALE

Washington, D. C.—The shipping board was advised Friday by Attorney General Clegg that it had authority to sell 200 vessels for scrap to Henry Ford as recommended by President Palmer of the fleet corporation.

WAUSAU YOUTH DROWNS
IN WISCONSIN RIVER

Wausau—Joseph Clison, aged 15 years, was drowned Friday forenoon while bathing in the Wisconsin river. He could not swim and when caught in a whirlpool was unable to reach the bank. The body was recovered within 20 minutes, but efforts at resuscitation failed.

COP SAW HIM
TAKING DRINK

John Hagen Breaks Bottle of "Evidence" While on Way to Lockup

Among the three arrests made by Appleton policemen Thursday was that of a drunken man, John Hagen, 1609 W. Spencer, whom Patrolman Bliss Carnes caught in the act of drinking from a bottle at College and Oneida St. While the policeman was taking the man to the station, Hagen threw the bottle on the pavement and broke it. Carnes said the contents looked like "white mule," but Hagen said it was only water. He did not explain why he broke the bottle, however. When arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Friday morning, he was fined $5 and costs but was given until Aug. 6 to settle up.

J. W. Roe, route 1, Oshkosh, paid a fine of $1 and costs amounting to $3.20 upon the order of Judge Berg after he had pleaded guilty to passing the red signal lights at College and Oneida St. Thursday morning. He was arrested by Patrolman Joseph Eyer. The policeman also arrested Harry Lar of Neenah for making a left turn at this corner Thursday. He is yet to be arraigned.

Chief George T. Prim of the department gave notice Friday that all those persons who were arrested by his men during the vacancy in municipal court and who have not yet appeared in court are ordered to appear before Judge Berg next Monday morning.

BRITAIN LIFTS LID ON CEYLON RUBBER EXPORT

By Associated Press
London—The British Colonial office announced Friday it had decided to permit from August 1, export of 75 per cent of the rubber production in Ceylon and the Straits Settlements at a minimum duty, this being a 10 per cent increase over the export allowed during the previous three months.

MARRIED MINISTER AND
SWEETHEART SURRENDER

By Associated Press
Newark, N. J.—R. Carl Ziegler, married minister and deposed klan official, and Miss Margaret Roberts of Trenton, with whom he eloped to El Paso, Tex., surrendered at the office of United States Commissioner Sommer Friday. Federal warrants were issued Thursday for their arrest for conspiracy to violate the Mann act.

C. M. AND ST. P. GETS PERMIT TO QUIT RUN

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad Friday was granted permission by the Interstate Commerce commission to abandon thirty miles of its branch line running from Babcock to Tomah, Wis., but it was ordered to keep the line from Norway to Babcock in operation. The road wanted to abandon the entire line of 23 miles.

SHOOTING OF CHINESE
TRADER BRINGS CRISIS

By Associated Press
Hongkong—An acute situation is reported to have arisen in Amoy over the shooting on Wednesday of a Chinese merchant who was known to be friendly to the British. A Chinese secretary of the municipal council was wounded at the same time. A general strike is believed to be inevitable in Amoy. A British gunboat has left for Amoy.

REFORMED CHURCH IS CLOSED TWO SUNDAYS

No services will be held for the next two Sundays at First Reformed church owing to the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Edward P. Nuss, who is taking his annual vacation. The Rev. Mr. Nuss and family left Thursday for Greenwood, where the pastor will preach at two services Sunday. They will return here to spend a few days and will go to Tomahawk Lake Sunday, Aug. 9, to spend a week at a cottage there.

UNDERTAKERS HOME FROM STATE MEETING

H. P. Schommer, David Bretschneider and Val Beyer have returned from Eau Claire where they attended the annual convention of the Wisconsin Funeral Directors association in that city from Monday to Wednesday.

A. T. Hanson of Kenosha was elected president for the coming year. Other officers elected were: Philip Weiss, Milwaukee, vice president; Karl Nowak, Wauwatosa, second vice president; Robert Kross, Sheboygan, secretary; A. E. Krauch, Madison, treasurer; A. E. Schramm, Merrill, sergeant-at-arms. The next state convention will be held at Superior.

At the Eau Claire convention plans for Wisconsin's representation at the national funeral directors' convention at West Baden, Ind. Oct. 16-17 and 18 were discussed. The national convention will probably be held at Milwaukee year after next.

ZONING BOARD MUST APPROVE TOURIST CAMPS

Kiwanis and Reitzner Proposals Will Be Considered at Meeting

Action on two proposed tourist campsites and another matter probably will be taken by the zoning board of appeals at a meeting called for 10 o'clock Monday morning in the city hall.

The Appleton Kiwanis club has leased a parcel of land at Belling's Corners from Fred Felix Wetters for tourist camp purposes. It has built two rest houses and is preparing to install waterworks and engage a caretaker. Authority to operate the tourist campsite, however, must first be granted by the board. It is said, and to consider this matter is one of the reasons why the meeting has been called.

Another application to operate a tourist campsite has come to the board from Nicholas Reitzner of the Appleton Wrecking Co. garage on N. Richmond-st. Mr. Reitzner says that many tourists who stop there to get gasoline ask for permission to camp on the vacant lots at the garage. He desires to put up tents and cots for the transients.

Matt Crowe is appealing to the board for authority to erect a private garage on his lot on S. State rd. between W. Spencer and W. Eighth-sts. The dimensions of other buildings on the lot prohibit him under the zoning ordinance from building the garage, according to George E. Peotter, building inspector.

PEA CANNING SEASON NOW AT END IN COUNTY

Pea canning for 1925 is at an end according to farmers living near Appleton. The canning companies are now engaged in dismantling the pea viner which they had stationed at certain farms for the last month and a half while the canning season lasted. According to reports received from rural mail carriers, this year's pea crop was not as heavy as that of last year.

Many Outagamie-co farmers near Appleton hauled their peas to the Hortonville canning factory. The Hortonville factory will be kept busy for the rest of the season canning beans. The beans are canned in the pod and one crop after another is raised until frost comes in the late fall.

CARDS MAILED NEAR POLE ARE RECEIVED HERE

William H. Zuehlke, Appleton postmaster, has received a postcard which, when mailed, was slated to be carried over the north pole by Roald Amundson in his polar flight last spring. Although this souvenir card did not quite get to the "top of the world," because the great Norwegian explorer did not reach his cherished goal, it was mailed from Kings Bay, the first postoffice Amundson came to on his return trip, and one of most northern postoffices in the world. The souvenir postcards were published by a dry goods company, names of those people wishing one were received, the cards were addressed to the people desiring them, and sent to Oslo, the capital city of Norway. Here they were picked up by Amundson, and were to be taken over the pole and mailed from Alaska. Because of the unsuccessful polar flight the cards had to be mailed at Kings Bay, Norway.

On the card is a Norwegian stamp of the regular issue now used by that country, but in addition there is a polar stamp, of a special Norwegian issue for this occasion. The cards were sent principally to stamp collectors, as only a limited number of these polar stamps were issued by the Norwegian government, and they will probably be of considerable value in years to come because of their scarcity and the unique purpose for which they were used. On the polar stamp is a picture of a polar bear.

W. O. Thiede, who has one of the best stamp collections in the city, also received one of the polar souvenir cards.

LEARNS THAT "BOBS" CONTINUE AS MODES

"Bobs" are still the rage and will be supplanted by wigs and transformations only for evening and formal wear, it was stated at the twentieth annual convention of the Marinello beauty school which was held in Chicago July 20 to 23, according to Miss Mary Anne Bestler, proprietor of the Marinello shop in Appleton, who attended the conference. French women are wearing wigs to conceal the shorn locks, but the American women refuse to adopt any other style of head dress besides the bob.

More than 800 beauty parlor operators from all over the United States attended the convention. Get-acquainted parties, theatre parties and trips around the lake featured in the program of entertainment. The Cosmetician society, in which nearly every operator of beauty shops belongs, is holding a convention this week. No one from Appleton is attending.

Pettibone's New Antique Room Is Now Open

THE ANTIQUE ROOM opened today on the Third Floor. This room is not only interesting to collectors, but to anyone who would like to see how our grandmothers and great grandmothers lived. Authentic pieces are shown dating from 1750. This collection is necessarily limited at the start because of the difficulty in restoring so many old pieces of furniture at one time.

Every antique in this room is guaranteed to be authentic. Each piece has been personally bought from private owners by our expert. After their purchase, these antiques were brought into our workrooms and carefully cleaned and restored. They are sold ready for use and require no further refinishing.

Pettibone's Antique Room will contain a selection as wide as that offered by most antique shops. A great number of pieces are now being restored and will be completed within the next few weeks. These collections are surprisingly Low Priced! If you desire, special pieces can be finished to your order. "Want lists" will be gladly accepted and filled as wanted pieces are found.
